Ickes Hits Gas Rationing Plan As Too Severe

Coordinator Asserts 2 1-2 to 5 Gallons a Week Is Not Enough
Predicts It Will Not Be Necessary To Make Such a Slash

By FRANK LEMAY
WASHINGTON, April 23 (P)—The severity of card rationing of gasoline in the east, effective May 5, became a matter of conjecture tonight after petroleum coordinator Harold L. Ickes labeled as "without justification" a semi-official prediction that motorists would get only two and one-half to five gallons a week.

All officials dealing with oil and transportation agreed, however, that the government no longer would risk lives of American seamen "so someone will have gasoline to go to a bridge party or a ball game."

Price Administrator Leon Henderson, who operates the government's rationing program, announced last night that curtailment of gasoline consumption by use of cards would begin May 15 in seven eastern states and the District of Columbia, and a source in Henderson's organization said each automobile would receive as little as two-and-one-half to five gallons weekly.

Ickes Questions Figures
"We refuse to believe people will be put under such short rations," Ickes told this press conference. "Who gave out those figures was poor prophet. If we are able to try out our plans there will be no such severe cut."

He emphasized that Henderson's formal announcement mentioned a curtailment figures, and he said a reduction of such severity had been discussed in the Petroleum Coordination Office.

One of Ickes's aides estimated that twenty-five gallons a month per automobile would be a "more likely allowance." The American Automobile Association estimated Civilian Defense Is Important Job, Col. Barrett Says

Director Declares There Is No Place for Those Opposed to Work

CHESTERTOWN, Md., April 23 (P)—Col. Henry S. Barrett said tonight there was no place in civilian defense for those who didn't intend to work and who didn't take the organization seriously.

In an address prepared for delivery at a Kent county defense meeting here, the state director of civil defense said "people in civilian defense should understand they volunteered to do a job—an important job."

If they are not ready and willing to do that job, let them get out. "Civilian defense isn't a matter of social clubs and tea parties. It is a serious problem. We may never need the civilian defense organization. I hope and pray we won't but it must be ready in case it is."

Urges Workers To Drill
Col. Barrett urged the civilian defense workers to drill constantly under simulated raid conditions. "Civilian defense," he said, "must be ready to move at a moment's notice. If it isn't ready to go when

C. Yates McDaniel, noted Associated Press correspondent, (above) who fled Singapore February 12, was cast on an island between Singapore and Java when the Japs bombed his ship. "During the day on the island I worked on my notes of the last hours of Singapore," McDaniel said. Here he is, still at work.

AMERICAN RAIDERS LAND IN SIBERIA

Planes Which Participated in Attack on Japanese Cities Forced To Come Down in Russia

MOSCOW, Friday, April 24 (P)—The official Tass news agency announced today that an American plane identified by its crew as a participant in the air raids on Japanese cities last Saturday made a forced landing in the Siberian Maritime times after losing its bearings.

The text of the Tass statement broadcast by the Moscow radio follows:

Raided Japanese Islands
"On April 18 an American war plane landed in Maritime territory. According to the statement of the plane's crew on that day this plane had participated in an American air raid on Japanese islands and, having lost its bearings, made a false landing on Soviet territory."

"In accordance with international law, Soviet authorities interned the American plane and its crew."

"This was the first direct word from any source of the landing of any of the planes which raided Japan. There still has been no word from any other United Nations source regarding the raids."

"The British news agency Reuters reported in London that the Moscow radio broadcast that reports from Khabarovsk said the plane landed in Russian Far East territory."

Location Not Given
"It was not stated where the plane landed but Khabarovsk is 200 miles west of the sea of Japan and 400 miles north of Vladivostok, Russian Siberian port."

"Japanese Imperial headquarters announced last Saturday that the great cities of Japan—Tokyo, Yokohama, Kobe and Nagoya—were bombed for the first time in history by planes which bore the insignia of the United States air force."

"There have been frequent references to the raids and the planes since then on Axis radios but there has been no comment from the United Nations on the raids."

Maryland To Fare Well under Plan To Ration Gas

Defense Workers Will Get Motor Fuel, Official Declares

BALTIMORE, April 23 (P)—Announcement of gasoline rationing brought predictions today that Maryland would fare much better than other states involved because of a high proportion of defense work but that passenger car travel would still suffer a sharp drop.

Lawrence W. Salfner, secretary of the Baltimore Gas Retailers' Association, said a five-gallon per week allotment would halve passenger travel in Maryland.

Leonard E. Kolmer, general manager of the Maryland Automobile Club, said Maryland motorists had already cut their long distance trips by thirty to forty per cent and that gasoline rationing would probably cut long pleasure trips to seventy-five per cent of the normal figure.

Kolmer said his organization would insist that Maryland be treated equally with other states in the rationing zone "and with Canada." Trips within a radius of 200 miles would drop twenty per cent, he predicted, but he saw no reason why motorists should stop using their cars completely.

He said the automobile club would fight for the motorist's right to get the monthly allotment at one time. "If this is allowed," he said, "there should be no great inconvenience to the public."

Salfner said the rationing plan would reduce the average annual value of each customer to the filling station operator from $50 to $25. "It can't help but force some of the smaller filling stations out of business," he contended. "It will definitely take away their margin of profit."

Chinese, British Forced To Fall Back in Burma

Japanese Encirclement Tactics Bring Temporary Success

By SPENCER MOOSA
CHUNGKING, China, April 23 (P)—Japanese encirclement tactics, pressed home with plane-supported tanks and hard-driving fresh infantry, have forced the Chinese to fall back from Loikaw and Pymmana on the east side of the Burma defense lines, while the British withdrew from Taunggyingyi on the center.

Battles raged today at key points all along the Burma front, from the Shan states near the Siamese border westward to the Yennang-yang sector on the Irrawaddy, but it was on the eastern flanks that the ten-times-superior forces of the invaders made their most dangerous gains.

Loikaw Abandoned
A Chinese communiqué said Loikaw, capital of the Karen-Ni states, on the Nam Prawn river, was abandoned after the Japanese outflanked the town on the north Tuesday evening.

The Chinese garrison forces, however, fought a long delaying action in the streets, struggling hand-to-hand against 10 to 1 odds, said the communiqué. Casualties were described as heavy on both sides.

The Japanese, continuing to rush up well-rested reinforcements, now are thrusting farther north through the great teak forests between the Nam Prawn and Salween rivers.

A Chinese army spokesman said terrific Japanese pressure also had forced the Chinese out of Pymmana on the Sittang river sixty-five miles northwest of Loikaw and less than 150 miles south of Mandalay.

The front now is in the vicinity of Myidangan, north of Pymmana on the railroad to Mandalay, said the Chinese, with fighting still in bitter progress.

Trucks, Telephones, Fishing Tackle And Corsets Hit by Defense Orders

WASHINGTON, April 23 (P)—The government piled up wartime restrictions on local and long distance truck deliveries today, made it clear it would soon become difficult to get new telephones installed, forbade the manufacture of fishing tackle and reduced the amount of elastic fabric used in making corsets and girdles.

The Office of Defense Transportation ordered all operators of locally used trucks, including the stores, to discontinue making special deliveries to customers. It also forbade "call-backs" on the same day when the first call finds the customer not at home.

No more than one delivery to a single person on one day was the rule laid down. At the same time "call-backs" for the purpose of making collections were prohibited.

Must Load Trucks
The Office of Defense Transportation, meanwhile, also laid down this rule for trucks operating between cities: they must be loaded to capacity on the trip out and to seventy-five percent of capacity, at least, on the trip back.

Public trucking companies will be required to pool their facilities wherever necessary in order to comply, and private and contract carriers to revise their shipping schedules. Under no circumstances, the

MacArthur Forces Batter Japanese Base of Rabaul

Dutch and Australian Troops Attack Invaders on Timor

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, April 23 (P)—A quickening of the tempo of allied air raids on the important and battered Japanese base of Rabaul on New Britain island was announced today from General MacArthur's headquarters, along with word that Dutch and Australian forces still are battling the Japanese on the invaded island of Timor.

Buildings at Stockholm plantation, near Rabaul, were hit directly in a surprise raid Tuesday afternoon. MacArthur's communiqué said, and on Wednesday morning the allied bombers followed up with attacks on a dock.

The size of the United Nations forces still on Timor, which is a part-Dutch part-Portuguese island 400 miles northwest of Australia, was not disclosed.

Fighting On Cebu
Touching also on the continued fighting in the Philippines, the communiqué said the struggle was continuing on Cebu island, that American-Filipino forces were in contact with the enemy on southern Panay island, and that the Manila Bay fortress of Corregidor had undergone intermittent but diminishing dive-bomber attacks.

(The Japanese radio reported 500 to 600 Americans and Filipinos were holding out on the slopes of Mount Baloy on Panay but that other resistance on that island had collapsed.)

While General MacArthur conferred with his air commander, Lieut. Gen. George H. Brett, who has just returned from inspection of bases, Vice-Admiral Herbert F. Leary announced formation of a fourteen-man naval staff for the Southwest Pacific area. Two are Australians and one Dutch, the others being Americans, headed by Capt. J. Cary Jones as chief of staff.

MacArthur Holds Conference
MacArthur, with Prime Minister Curtin, also met the premiers of the Australian states in a closed session on political and military plans.

Authoritative sources said Curtin arranged the meeting so the premiers could appreciate in advance any reasons for large-scale internal arrangements which might be made at any time.

Meanwhile, an announcement by Prime Minister Peter Fraser in New Zealand clarified the status of that domination, more than 1,000 miles east of Australia. He said his government had concurred in placing defense of New Zealand, Fiji and other islands under a U. S. naval command, even though New Zealand had made representations favoring a close link with Australia under MacArthur.

(Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley has been mentioned in Washington as the expected appointee.)

Delivery Services Ordered Curtailed

WASHINGTON, April 23 (P)—The government issued orders today curtailing local delivery services, thereby to conserve transportation facilities and equipment.

Effective May 15, the Office of Defense Transportation directed, local carriers, including merchandisers, are prohibited from making any special deliveries except to hospitals, and the armed forces or emergency deliveries or supplies, "necessary to protect the public health, life and safety."

German Attacks Slower

Russian reports from the southern sector, where the ground war is hardening and where the Germans might be expected to strike an early new blow toward the Caucasus, indicated that German counter-attacks had waned mysteriously.

Of the total of German reserves called recently to the colors, at least 900,000 were said by Solomon Lovozovsky, the Soviet vice-commissioner of foreign affairs, to be from new military classes of youths 17 to 18 years old. Half a million more, he added, were taken from vital industry and another half a million from "the vassal countries."

German Troops Exhausted
Lovozovsky said there was every indication that the German rear was disintegrating and the people exhausted.

No Fooling the Bull In State of Texas

AUSTIN, TEX., April 23 (P)—In Texas it's against the law to fool a bull.

In effect, that's what the state's attorney general's office said in forbidding a sham bull fight at Corpus Christi.

"Will the bull know that when the matador brandishes his wooden sword that the fight is only a sham and a jest?" reasoned the attorney general's legal minds. "We think not."

Real bull fights are out, too.

New Offensive To End War This Year Urged In Fighting Address

URGES NEW OFFENSIVE

Lord Beaverbrook

Hillier Calls Out His Reserves To Fight in Russia

Youths from 17 to 18 Years of Age Pressed into Service

By EDDY GILMORE

KUIBYSHEV, U.S.S.R., April 23 (P)—Nine-tenths of the whole German army is on the Russian front and Hitler has called up 1,900,000 reserves, but the Red army is moving up enough men to meet this immense threat, the official Soviet spokesman declared today.

Constant skirmishing, some of it violent, continued on the vast quagmire of the front, but there was yet no sign of a German spring offensive and Red army dispatches laid stress on the fact that no major action was being joined.

(Axis and neutral reports received in London led observers there to think the Red army itself was feeling out German lines in the Donets Basin and Crimea preparatory to beating Hitler to the spring punch in these southern areas. The Germans said the Russians were attacking on the Crimean Kerch peninsula, using from twenty to thirty tanks in one thrust; Stockholm dispatches said that the Russians were massing men near Kerch for a new drive westward and that others were being concentrated in the southern Ukraine. These reports were substantiated to some degree by a German announcement that the Nazi air force was bombing troop concentrations southeast of Kharkov and in the Kerch area as well.)

Both Employment And Payrolls in Maryland Higher

But Priorities and Material Shortages Show Their Effects

BALTIMORE, April 23 (P)—Priorities and material shortages continued to show their effects in Maryland industry last month but both employment and payrolls increased during the month, the commissioner of labor and statistics announced today.

Employment was up 2.5 per cent over February and combined weekly payrolls increased 3.2 per cent in the same period. Both increases are slightly above the average March increases reported for the past nineteen years.

Average Is High
Of the forty-three industries reporting to Commissioner John M. Pohlhaus, twenty-one reported increases in both employment and payrolls but ten industries, chiefly those affected by shortages, reported declines in both factors. Eight industries reported employment decreases and payroll gains.

The average weekly earnings, Pohlhaus said, were $37.74 in March at an average hourly rate of 73.9 cents and an average work week of 43.7 hours.

The report was based on returns made by 678 manufacturing establishments.

"Strike Out Now To Help Russia", Famous British Editor Says in Talk to American Newspaper Publishers Association; Praises Communism as Taught by Stalin; Defends Red Purges

NEW YORK, April 23 (P)—Lord Beaverbrook, declaring that "Russia may settle the war for us in 1942," called tonight for a great new offensive by the British in the west to help the Soviet armies battling Germany.

"By holding the Germans in check, possibly even by defeating them, the Russians may be the means of bringing the whole Axis structure down," the British publisher told the annual dinner of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

"This is a chance, an opportunity to bring the war to an end here and now. But if the Russians are defeated and driven out of the war, never will such a chance come to us again."

"Strike out to help Russia. Strike out violently. Strike even recklessly, but in any event such blows that mean real help will be our share and contribution to the Russian Battle-front."

Pays Tribute to U. S.
The British publisher, who recently left Prime Minister Winston Churchill's cabinet to come to the United States on a government mission, said that he believed in the Russian theory that "the best form of defense is attack." He paid high tribute to the vital aid the United States has given the Soviet armed forces.

Speaking on the same platform with Francis B. Sayre, United States high commissioner to the Philippine Islands, Beaverbrook found an attentive audience in the publishers. Closing their fifty-sixth annual convention, they had sent a resolution to President Roosevelt pledging "our . . . unswerving support to our commander in chief in this hour of national crisis . . ."

Beaverbrook made no effort to minimize the misfortunes the British have been surviving on their present home front, and he also made an ardent defense of Stalin and his Communist Generals.

American Cargo Ship Torpedoed Off East Coast

Crewmen Bring Small Cargo Vessel Into Atlantic Port

NORFOLK, Va., April 23 (AP)—Crewmen who brought an American cargo ship liming into an east coast port the day after it was attacked by an enemy submarine off the Atlantic coast on April 18 said their skipper was warned of the approaching torpedo by a navy plane swooping low over the water.

Captain John D. Baldwin, of Brooklyn, N. Y., master of the medium-sized vessel, barely had time to shout "hard astern" and give the alarm before the torpedo from the unseen raid struck forward on the starboard side. The explosion left a gaping hole, buckled deck plate overhead, made a shambles of the wheel house and caused minor injuries to the captain and a crewman.

Drop Depth Charges

The first naval district public relations office, in announcing the torpedoing today, quoted crew members as saying that vessels and planes in the vicinity dropped a number of depth charges in the area where the attack occurred.

Chief Mate Matthew T. Hannan, of Paterson, N. J., and Chief Engineer Andrew H. McGargle, of Clifton, N. J., told naval officers they saw the wake of the torpedo.

Saw Torpedo Broad

"I saw the torpedo break water twice about thirty seconds before she hit," McGargle said, adding that the explosion "felt like we had hit a tremendous sea."

Second Mate Lars Oien, a naturalized Norwegian, whose home is in Brooklyn, N. Y., said he had been torpedoed twice during the first world war.

"But they warned us then and gave us time to get off in the lifeboats," he added.

Japanese Couple To Marry in U. S.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 23 (AP)—There'll be an early wedding at this mountain resort where hundreds of enemy aliens are interned, but this time a Japanese couple will be the principals.

It was learned today that application for a marriage license had been filed at the Greenbrier county clerk's office in Lewisburg for Juichi Yoshida, 26, a native of Tokyo, and Kimiko Salto, 30.

The bridegroom-elect is one of the approximately 300 Japanese nationals brought here early this month from Hot Springs, Va. To join between 300 and 500 Germans held at the Spa since early in the war.

Miss Salto was listed on the application as a native of Portland, Ore., and the daughter of Japanese parents.

The Japanese internes replaced 242 Rumanian, Hungarian and Italian aliens who were transferred to Asheville, N. C.

Officials in the county clerk's office indicated that the marriage license probably would be issued tomorrow.

construction of airplanes, bombs and other prime war products.

He testified that a cartel agreement between the Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA) and Dow Chemical Company, another United States concern, and the I. G. Farbenindustrie, of Germany, created a virtual monopoly restriction on magnesium production here and gave the German firm world domination in this field.

Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) broke in to ask Arnold why Justice department officials had agreed to the consent decree on April 15—just a few days ago—if they believed they had a "dead open and shut case for conviction?"

Basis for Criticism

Arnold said he agreed there was some basis for criticism of consent decrees in general and this one in particular in anti-trust cases but noted that there were some people who said:

"If you don't stop prosecuting cases like this you interfere with the war effort."

All magnesium licenses in the cartel, he added, had been made available to other producers by the consent decree and this seemed wise in the effort to speed up national defense.

Candy Industry Hit

The confectionery industry, affected by the sugar shortage, showed a 26 percent employment drop and a 18 percent decline in Maryland last month as compared to February.

Lumber employment and payrolls dropped well below the February figures but were still considerably above the March, 1941, totals. A similar condition existed in the production of boxes and paper.

The hotel industry was down slightly, one per cent, from February and down 6.8 per cent from March, 1941.

Income Tax Yield About $9,100,000

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 23 (AP)—State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes said today Maryland's income tax yield may surpass the $8,440,000 goal and produce as much as $9,100,000.

To date 109,160 taxable returns are yet to be tabulated. Until these are cleared, Tawes won't know how many taxpayers made part payments.

But if the balance to be received in part payments from the returns already tabulated equals one-third of the $9,044,938 already collected, then the yield would be boosted to approximately $6,700,000, he said.

Last year's average return produced $60. If the 40,000 returns yet to be cleared average $60, then $2,400,000 more would be added, bringing the total yield to $9,100,000.

Indications point to the levy producing more than $8,440,000, Tawes declared.

Farm Wage Rates Advance Sharply

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 23 (AP)—The Maryland Crop Reporting Service announced today farm wage rates had increased sharply from April 1, 1941, to April 1, 1942, monthly rates with board having increased twenty-five per cent.

From January 1 to April 1, 1942, the monthly farm wage rates with board increased seven per cent, the service's survey, based on data furnished by crop and farm work reporters, disclosed. Daily wage rates for the 1941-42 period increased in about the same proportion as the monthly rates for that period.

Monthly farm wage rates on April 1 this year were about equal to the relatively high level of April 1, 1927, while day rates were slightly below that period, the report said.

Finnish Troops On Kalinin Front

By EDDY GILMORE

KUIBYSHYEV, Russia, April 23 (AP)—Finnish troops appeared for the first time today on the Kalinin front, in the broad area northwest of Moscow, participating in local but nonetheless fierce combats as both the Russian defenders and the Axis invaders piled up reserves for the expected gigantic conflict of spring and early summer.

The hotly fought local actions were repeated on many sectors. The Communist party paper Pravda said the invaders were launching numerous counter-attacks but that all had failed.

Ickes Hits Gas

that the average motorist normally uses fifty-five gallons monthly.

Would Include Northwest Ickes said the Pacific northwest as well as the east should be put under Henderson's rationing program. Gasoline consumption in seventeen states, the District of Columbia, Oregon and Washington now is curtailed thirty-three and one-third per cent under normal by the filling station supplies limitations.

He disclosed the prospect of another headache for motorists, and many eastern homeowners as well—a price increase on gasoline and house heating oil.

The coordinator told newsmen he planned to seek, for the third time, a priority for steel to build a twenty-four inch pipeline for the southwest to the Philadelphia-New York area. The old Supply and Priority Allocation Board and War Production Board twice have rejected the proposal. But Ickes said that if laying of the line had begun last summer it would now be funneling 350,000 barrels of oil daily to the seaboard area. The line would cost $80,000,000.

Railroads Set Record Railroads last week set another record for eastward movement of oil, using 44,000 tank cars to transport 600,000 barrels daily. Ickes said the eastern demand for all petroleum products now amounted to 1,300,000 barrels daily.

A limitation of motorists to two and one-half to five gallons a week, if Henderson put such a reduction in force, would cause serious dislocations in the petroleum industry, including the closing of many of the east's approximately 100,000 service stations, the co-ordinator said. He pointed out also that large production of gasoline was necessary to obtain by-products for aviation gasoline output, and that it might become necessary to return the refined motor fuel to underground storage, if transportation facilities were insufficient to deliver it to consuming areas.

Ickes joined Henderson, Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, Chairman Emory S. Land of the Maritime Commission and Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman in a statement that "motoring-as-usual is out" in the east, possibly for the duration of the war.

Protests against consumer rationing of gasoline came, meantime, from New England resort operators and an organization of filling station operators.

Anticipating that some motorists might attempt to hoard gasoline, the National Fire Protection Association issued a warning that there was serious danger of explosion and fire if gasoline was kept in make-shift containers.

Stalin Sees Standley

MOSCOW, April 23 (AP)—Premier Joseph Stalin tonight received Admiral William H. Standley, the new United States ambassador, for a talk which lasted more than an hour.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The wet monsoon is drawing inexorably close in Burma, heartening United Nations forces defending the road to Mandalay against desperate Japanese efforts to break through before the rains come.

Every hour gained by British Imperial or the Chinese troops, now apparently holding much of a 150 mile front from the Irrawaddy to the Salween, is of vital consequence. Within three weeks or less, the Monsoon change will render lower Burma, through which Japanese supply lines run, a sea of mud.

That it will wash out the force of the attack is inevitable, even though the rains in the fighting zones fall less torrentially than in the lower valleys of the Irrawaddy and Salween. For it is up those valleys from Rangoon that all roads to Mandalay run.

Japanese Chances Poor Japan has staked much on breaking through to Mandalay, or at least to the upper oil fields of the Irrawaddy southwest of Mandalay, before the rains. Once the weather breaks, the air odds against the defenders will cease to be a controlling factor. And without that advantage Japanese chances of mopping up before adequate British or American reinforcements can be mustered will be slight.

Chungking's report that the Chinese troops not only have cleared Yenangyang of the foe but driven him back some miles down the Irrawaddy is highly encouraging. That Japanese flanking attack up the Irrawaddy which forced the British to destroy the oil fields of which Yenangyang is the center appears the most dangerous.

The British have fallen back behind the Pinchaung river just north of Yenangyang to organize a new defense front. They also have withdrawn from Taungdwingyi but guard the Bay of Bengal flank from any Japanese sea-borne thrust to turn the Burma front from the west. There is increasing evidence, however, that British and possibly American air and naval power is being mustered in India and the Indian ocean to balk either that or Japanese attempts at direct invasion of mainland India.

Much Depends on Chinese

It is upon the Chinese troops, however, that the fate of the road to Mandalay rests. They appear to be holding the crucial sectors of the southern front from the Irrawaddy to the Salween.

The Rangoon-Mandalay railroad runs up the Sittang. The Chinese have put up a step-by-step resistance there that has as yet balked the foe in the center and forced him to attempt extended flanking operations both eastward along the Salween and westward up the Irrawaddy.

Chinese forces on the Salween at Loikaw are said by Chungking to have fallen back because of a turning movement north of them. That is the least dangerous of the five Japanese attacks, however. North of Loikaw lie some of the most rugged mountains of Burma. They offer many successive defense positions to Chinese troops well adapted to that type of fighting. They also minimize the Japanese advantage in air power and mechanized equipment.

That east flank also offers the greatest communication and supply difficulties to the foe. It will be first to feel the effects of the rains, when they come, and unquestionably the strategy of the Chinese and their American allies and advisers is to fall back as necessary on the Salween while greater efforts are concentrated on holding the Sittang front and bolstering the hard pressed British on the Irrawaddy.

New Offensive

that "... the biggest disaster was our naval losses. Forty-seven warships were sunk in the operations off Norway and Dunkirk. And when the evacuation was over half our destroyer fleet lay awaiting repairs in our shipyards.

"We were defeated in Greece ... Then came the Japs. They caught us unawares in Malaya and Singapore. We have little to say in defense of our errors ... but that is the story of the past. Now the day has come when in almost every quarter of Britain the cry goes up, 'ATTACK! ATTACK IN SUPPORT OF RUSSIA!' For the passion to set up a western fighting front in aid of the Russians is deep in the hearts of all our people.

Favors Second Front "Ever since a journey to Russia in October last I have been in favor of a second front. The British and American supply missions at that time provided our ally with aircraft and tanks, and anti-aircraft guns, and with anti-tank guns. And some short-sighted people complained that we did wrong to put weapons in the hands of Communists.

"I don't understand the complaint. Communism under Stalin has produced the most valiant fighting army in Europe. Communism under Stalin has provided us with examples of patriotism equal to the finest annals of history. Communism under Stalin has won the applause and admiration of all the western nations ...

"Persecution of Christianity? Not so, there is no religious persecution. The church doors are open. And there is complete freedom to practice religion, just as there is complete freedom to reject it ...

No Racial Persecution "Racial persecution? Not at all. Jews live like other men. There are many races in the Soviet Union and not even a color bar.

"Political purges? Of course. But it is now clear that the men who were shot down would have betrayed Russia to her German enemy.

"Then again, it is said by one of my neighbors: 'Don't give anymore supplies to the Russians lest they use their weapons against us the next time they change sides.' "That is not possible. There is no crossing the river of martyrs blood. Maybe more than a million men and women have died to save Russia. The peace will come, not from negotiation, but from subjugation. Russia or Germany must be destroyed ... Stalin has pledged his word to make war and peace with Great Britain and America. He will respect his promise.

In a preoration defending Prime Minister Churchill as the "great crusader of modern times" and the "embodiment of the spirit of Britain today," Beaverbrook said:

"I am told here and there wherever I go, that he will fall before the summer is out. You must help me to kill that bad rumor. Such a disaster we cannot contemplate in Great Britain."

Sayre Urges Production Sayre, who said it was difficult for him to realize that he was back in the gay, free and sunlit life of the United States, told the publishers that the production front at home was of "equal importance" to the front in the Philippines and other Far East outposts where American soldiers are giving their lives.

"No matter how magnificent their spirit," Sayre said, "men cannot win without planes and guns and ships and war supplies. Because we lack sufficient planes and fighting material in the war areas out best fighters were powerless to stop the Japanese sweeping southward from Lingayen Gulf to Manila."

45-64 Age Group Registration To Start Tomorrow

More Than 225,000 Maryland Men Expected To Become Available

[By The Associated Press] Several thousand men from each Maryland county were preparing today (Friday) to register in the Fourth draft registration for the 45-64 age group, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state selective service director, urged the men to register early and warned the registration was compulsory for all men who had attained their forty-fifth birthday on or before Feb. 16, 1942 and who had not attained their sixty-fifth birthday on or before April 27, 1942.

More than 225,000 men were expected to be added to the nation's available manpower. Col. Stanwood said penalties for failure to register would be the same that were in effect for the three previous registrations of younger men.

Possible Non-Military Duty Officials said men in the fourth registration would not be called for military service, but might be called for non-military duty.

Baltimore's twenty-six draft boards were planning to conduct registration at 119 special offices throughout the city with draft board personnel and volunteer workers serving as registrars.

Frederick county's two draft boards sent out cards and certificates sufficient to register nearly 7,000 men. Heavy registration was expected at Emmitsburg, Mount St. Mary's College, New Midway, Libertytown, New Market, Brunswick and Frederick.

Officials said schools would be used as registration centers and they urged early registration so that the school routine would not be disrupted Monday.

Draft board officials in Hagerstown said they expected approximately 8,000 men to register there and in Washington county. Schools would be used for registration places, they added.

Will Register Those III The services of draft board No. 4 would be available for men ill at home or confined to hospitals. Frostburg officials said. Any member of the family of a disabled man within the fourth registration age group could procure a completed registration card by appearing at the draft board, the officials declared.

The card could then be taken home for the signature of the registrant, they said.

Superintendent of Schools W. Theodore Boston has asked that Dorchester county registrars cooperate in preventing overcrowding of schools while they are in session. County officials said a staff of registrars would be on duty in the Cambridge armory Sunday.

Draft officials estimated that 3,200 men would register in Wicomico county. They said school principals and teachers would serve as registrars.

Hours for registration will be virtually the same throughout the state—9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturday, 9 a. m. or 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. on Sunday and 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Sunday.

Indian People To Stay Passive in the War

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Luther W. Silfer, a United Lutheran missionary in India for the past seventeen years, said today the vast majority of the 400,000,000 Indian people would be "utterly passive, neither helping nor hindering," if their country was invaded by the Japanese.

"To be honest, the people of India as a whole are neither more or less opposed to the Japanese than they are to the British. To the impoverished farmer it matters little to whom he pays his taxes," the missionary said.

Land Calls for National War Labor Policy To End "Infernal Agitation"

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—Rear Admiral Emory S. Land called today for the establishment of a national war labor policy to end the "infernal agitation" he said was keeping some of the men who build merchant ships from giving their level best on the job.

The chairman of the maritime commission told the Senate Defense Investigating committee that if troublesome labor questions and other impediments to morale were cleared away, the ship construction program could be stepped up twelve and one-half percent this year and twenty-five per cent next year with the same facilities.

After committee members had asked why some yards were lagging behind schedule, Land declared:

Declares Men Disturbed "We've got to have a national war labor policy. We ought to stabilize our labor and management relations to that the men won't be disturbed all of the time by these questions. "If we had a definite program it would stop the infernal agitation that is going around in everybody's head whether they have a closed shop, an open shop or some other condition."

In this connection, he said he regarded war slowdowns as a serious question and was greatly exercised by loafing. He indicated support of proposals for freezing the status of open and closed shops but said the question of lengthening the work week at regular wages from forty to forty-eight hours involved some economic phases he didn't want to pass upon.

predicted that suspension of the requirement for time and one-half pay for work in excess of forty hours a week would be followed by demands for wage increases, Land replied:

Praises Laborers

"I believe the labor people are so loyal and patriotic that if they were assured that the resulting gains would go into the United States treasury and not into the pockets of the shipbuilding firms, they would be ready to make such sacrifices."

While Land was testifying, Rep. Engel (R-Mich.) told the House he believed suspension of the forty-week law would "mark the end of the democracy and the beginning of totalitarianism."

ese after they gained less than six miles in expensive frontal assaults.

Forty miles farther northwest, the British reported they had pulled out of Taungdwingyi, apparently in a line-straightening operation necessitated by the loss of Pymnana.

Another sixty miles northwest, where a Chinese counter-attack previously had rescued British forces trapped at Yenangyang, the Chinese reported that they had mopped up Japanese elements three and four miles south of that ravaged oil town but that the invaders now had been reinforced and a battle was taking place in the vicinity of the Plur river, a tributary of the broad Irrawaddy.

CHARLES W. ELRIK OF GORMANIA IS TAKEN BY DEATH

GORMANIA, W. Va., April 23—Charles Wesley Elrik, 83, died yesterday at his home here after a short illness. He was engaged in the mercantile business for more than thirty-five years.

Before coming to Gorman, Mr. Elrik was employed by the Buxton Landstreet company as clerk at Thomas, W. Va., and was manager of the company's store at Henry, W. Va.

Mr. Elrik was a son of the late John and Rebecca Elrik of Berlin, Pa., where he was born. He was preceded in death by his wife, Mrs. Mollie Shatzer Elrik, who died in 1932 also one daughter, Alma, and two sons, Charles W. and Robert C. Elrik.

Surviving are the following children: Austin H. Elrik, postmaster at Gorman; Wesley M. Nellie M. Cora E. all of Gorman; and J. Edwin, of Mt. Storm. Five grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Elrik Kennell, of Weathersburg, Pa.

Funeral services will be held in Gorman, Presbyterian church Saturday, with burial in Rose Hill cemetery in Cumberland, Md.

Three Fires Destroy 8 Acres of Woodland

Three fires yesterday swept eight acres of woodland. District Forest Warden Urner Wigfield reported last night, adding that the cause of the blazes remained unknown, although at least one was believed to be of incendiary origin.

The fires were on Dan's mountain, near Dawson, five acres; the east side of Polish mountain along U. S. Route 40, two acres; and near Wright's Crossing, one acre.

has been ended and that it should be curtailed even though self-supporting and its earnings thus increased by lessened expenses be allowed to redound to the benefit of the war cost. But, of course, construction will still be needed and allowed in the war plant areas by reason of the magnitude of the war program, and the help given will probably be needed here for some time to come. The amortization business will, of course, make necessary a continuation of its functions in that respect. Thus the structure will be available for further use in the post-war period. But a reasonable curtailment commensurate with the changed situation should be in order.

What the French Quisling Is Likely To Attempt

THE DEVICE by which Laval France will enter the war actively on the side of Hitler is likely to be an attempt to retake French territory now in the hands of the Free French forces of Charles de Gaulle. Most of this is in Africa.

Active participation of France in the war as an ally of the Nazis can only be prevented by anti-Laval acts on the part of the populace that assume important proportions. The French people distrust Laval and they certainly do not like the Germans. Acts of sabotage against Vichy are therefore almost certain to be committed. Attempts at assassination of pro-Hitler French leaders would not be surprising.

An attempt by Laval to seize territory now held by the Free French would almost certainly result in break in relations between the United States and France. London has had no diplomatic relations with Vichy France and has recognized and fully co-operated with the Free French since the days of Dunkerque. Free French headquarters is in London.

British strategists who attempted to destroy the French fleet soon after France was conquered by Hitler foresaw present developments and tried to prepare for it. Unfortunately, the task was too gigantic for the British navy to perform unaided at the time. Vichy France retained possession of a great part of the French fleet, and this is now Hitler's to command.

Where the Quisling Laval will strike first only Hitler knows, but his speeches promising full co-operation with Germany and his verbal attacks on the Allies leave no doubt that he plans active naval co-operation with the Nazis. Only an uprising of the French people seems to stand between Laval's threats and an attempt to make them effective.

Good Only as A Wisecrack

THE WITTY NEW YORKER MAGAZINE indorses a suggestion regarding the terrible congestion and confusion existing at the national capital.

"The authorities make the reasonable request," it says, "that everybody stay out of Washington if possible. Here is something we can all do for our country without expense or pain."

That is pretty good for a wisecrack, but when pondered it turns out to be one of those hopeless occupations.

Even by staying out of Washington citizens, while possibly avoiding the congestion and the confusion there, cannot hope to avoid either expense or pain as the result of what Washington is doing and is failing to do.

Our curbstone philosopher doesn't mind giving up long distance motor trips for the duration. He never could refold a road map properly.

The plant kingdom, too, has wolves in sheep's clothing. Many a budding radish turns out to be, after all, just another weed.

Housecleaning time reminds all of us that the original "winged menace" is none other than the lowly moth.

How To Treat A Husband

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Husbands know when they've made fools of themselves.

When they've said just the wrong things—when they've done what they were carefully warned NOT to do—

They aren't as stupid as they seem!

They always know when they've been acting childishly, foolishly, awkwardly, stupidly, as if they didn't know any better.

Husbands do know better, but they can't help making mistakes. They can't seem to remember all those rules and restrictions that keep life flowing smoothly.

Their motto is: "Oh, she'll understand—she'll know I didn't mean anything by it!"

But down underneath, when a man makes an ass of himself, he is boiling with rage. He fumes, he smokes, he turns sour, he ferments and bubbles and explodes in silent curses. He knows what a spectacle he made of himself—

But he doesn't want you to say anything about it. He asks you, please, to act as though nothing at all had happened, as though you weren't ashamed of him, as though you hadn't noticed. He's not saying a word but he's hating himself. Don't you say anything, either. Let him suffer in silence. Don't add what YOU think to what he is already thinking about himself. Don't even try to console the turbulent, seething fellow. Don't remind him of his amazing assiduity of his bad manners, of his foolishness. Please don't!

If you do, he'll be madder than ever. He'll think he must defend himself. He'll say more things that he doesn't mean and he'll turn on you—and widen the black breach between himself and civilized humanity. He was mad at himself, you'll make him mad at you, and you will merely make matters worse.

I'm not arguing. I'm telling you. Husbands are odd creatures, compacted of pride and tenderness and childishness and maturity and scraps of wisdom and great blocks of foolishness. And when they say the wrong thing, do the wrong thing, they want to be left alone in their misery. If you are a wise wife, you'll not say a word and he'll try to make amends; but if you tell him what you think of him, he'll think he is a martyr and it may be days and days before he's able again.

Let him alone, please.

Aviators Declare The Battleship Is Not Supreme Now

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

The battleships' still supreme, according to orthodox sea-fighting professionals. It's obsolete already and will soon be as much so as the dodo, according to aviation enthusiasts.

The subject is hotly debated between 'em in Washington and from all accounts, between other countries' rival groups of experts.

Charles P. Stewart. Submarines are a factor in the equation also.

A sub isn't very well equipped to shoot down a plane, but it can torpedo a surface boat quite conveniently. And from overhead, flyers, at the same time, can bomb it. This makes it so vulnerable, assert disciples of the new school of warfare, that the bigger type of water-borne belligerent craft has become almost a liability rather than an asset. It's agreed that plenty of little pewees, like destroyers, continue to be needed, to run errands and overhaul merchantmen—but not big battleships.

Shucks, says the battleship's defenders, submarines are a nuisance and it's a fact that battleships do need flocks of planes to scare enemy planes out of their adjacent atmosphere and to spot subs, swishing around underneath, but the battleships are the main consideration—they're real sea strength.

Hub, rejoins the aviators, according to you battleshippers' own account you have to have planes to protect you. If you have to be everlastingly protected, how can you consider yourselves as anything more than an aviatorial adjunct, for a few surface purposes, like mass landings? And even these can be provided for by mere transports. We'll protect THOSE, without any of your co-operation.

Pro and Con

But you can't stay in the air long enough for trans-oceanic strife, insist the surface warriors.

No, concede the aviators, but that's our plane carriers' mission—to make us close up to such shores as we want to scout over and just leave, while we take off from 'em. Talk about adjuncts? Plane carriers are OUR aviatorial adjuncts. You battleshippers aren't even an adjunct. You're nothing but a responsibility.

Of course a plane-carrier has to be protected, too, but it has its own planes right on hand, to attend to it.

Another item mentioned by the flyers is that at least half a dozen planes can be manufactured at about the same rate as one surface ship, or faster than that, in comparison with a big battleship.

Sea Control Essential

The nub of the battleshippers' case is that we must control the sea, to win the pending war, and that only battleships can control it. The aviators reply is that aviation can control battleshipping.

They cite Japan's activities in support of their contention, pointing out that the Japs have a pretty sizable battleship fleet, but have depended principally upon their flyers for their recognized accomplishments, to date, in the Pacific.

With experts differing, as they do, a layman isn't entitled to much of an opinion.

Aviators scored formidably but, since it's too new for the professionals themselves to agree on, as to its merits, in comparison with older-fashioned methods of warfare, all the bystander can do is to look on and wonder how the old and new systems will stack up relatively in the long run.

Wood Comes Back

It's noteworthy, incidentally, that the wooden ship is coming back into its own as something of a submarine-proof.

Wooden hulls aren't as resistant to punctures as steel ones are.

Nevertheless, steel CAN be punctured, and when it is, steel's sinkable. A wooden boat can be perforated and keep on floating. Its raw material is lighter than water. It can be tolerably well smashed up and remain on the surface.

Wood's fallen into considerable favor with merchant ship operators lately.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox comments on the tendency. He says it's resulted in a "notable reduction" in the number of United Nations' merchantmen sinkings, and hints at the desirability of wooden bottoms for submarine-chasers.

Shot full of holes, they go on navigating. Naturally they require speedy repairs, but they don't go down, ker-plunk as a steel craft does when a submarine bull's-eye ventilates it.

The same thing may be true overhead, when a plane's bomb lands on board.

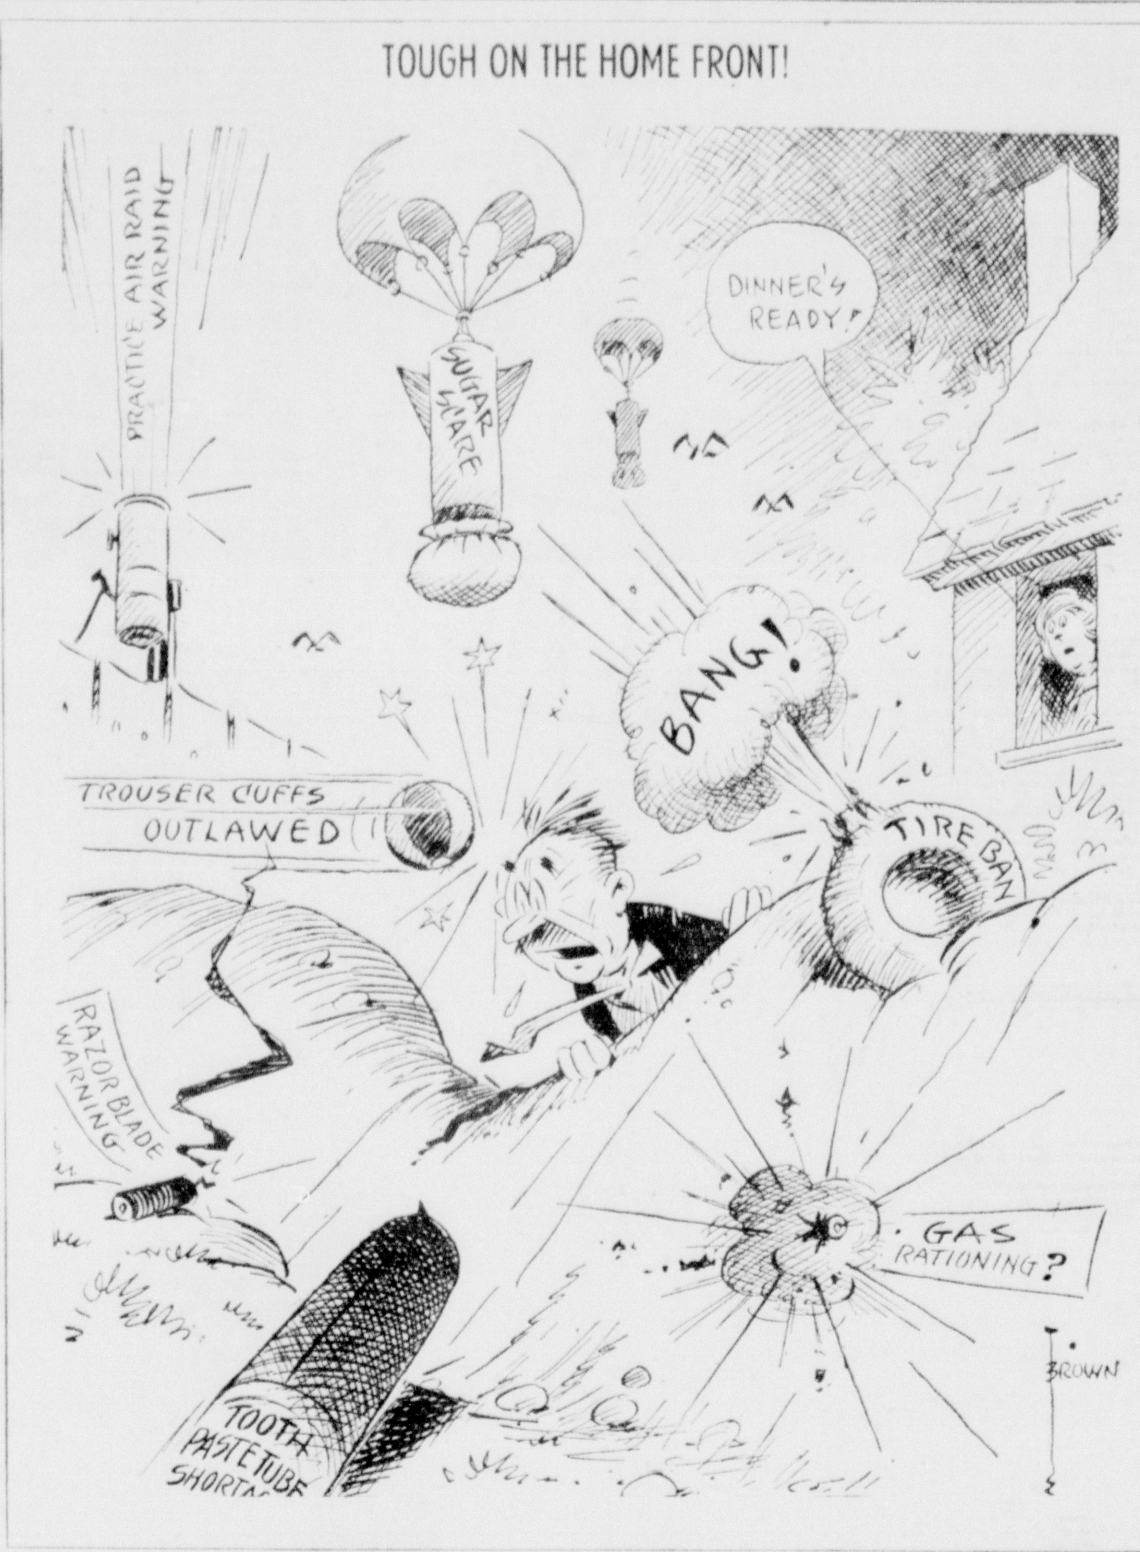

Surface armorclads were regarded as great at the time they were invented. Now there's a modicum of skepticism concerning 'em.

Germany Long Sought To Disprove the Facts of the Bible, Boake Carter Says

By BOAKE CARTER

Daniel Starch, who operates a nationally famous research concern submitted a list of the twenty-five "greatest" books of world history at the Eastern Psychological Association meeting at Brown University.

The list was made up from selections of 100 judges, consisting of fifty literary critics and fifty individuals who have distinguished themselves in the field of knowledge.

The judges, in choosing their titles, had all the rich literary history of mankind from which to choose. No book since 1900 was included in this list. A generation or more must elapse before any permanent place for a book can be established.

What book do you imagine scored the highest mark?

Yes, the Bible.

It scored 309, close to 100 points above the second highest honor which went to Shakespeare for his Hamlet (and some even say that Shakespeare "lifted" much of his "imaginative" poetry from the Bible).

But it is of more than passing interest that fifty famed literary critics and fifty distinguished citizens from all walks of life should choose the Bible as the greatest of all books alive in the world today. But this strangeness does not lie in the fact that such a selection has been reached notwithstanding modern man's acceptance of the Bible as being made up of fables and myths. In this regard, if none other, the choice of the one hundred gentlemen seems paradoxical.

Other Great Books

All the more so when we consider that the other twenty-four works chosen as following the Bible in greatness and importance are much more widely accepted by a so-called "intellectual" and "educated" world as having more "sense" and "logic" than the Biblical account. Proof of

Great Lessons

The Bible is more than poetry. The books of Job and Isaiah, rich as they are in poetry, contain great lessons and messages—of more critical use for us today than for our fathers in the past. In short, the Bible is the greatest "human" document that we possess. It is THE book of instructions from the Master Architect.

That this Book has outlived all other documents and books is in itself a miracle. It has stood the test of all generations. It has been the most bought and most accepted, yet the least read of all books. It has been the most discussed book for the past two thousand years, and also the most cursed and blasphemed—and mutilated. Original meanings have become lost through distortion and translation.

Also, no other book in history has influenced the world as has the Bible. Jew, Christian, Mohammedan in their various sects. Each creed has interpreted it in its own way. But the Bible is yet to be put into the hands of its creators, that is to receive its original meaning, and that day may not be so far off as we think.

Strangely, with all the confusions enumerated above, the original Hebrew today remains unadulterated and pure. The fact that the Bible has been miraculously preserved indicates also the eternity of the Author thereof. Since the recording of human history many tyrants have tried to destroy the name of the Author and His Book. Today we have one more tyrant loose, trying the same thing. He has partially succeeded in Europe where Hitler banned the Bible and substituted Mein Kampf.

Not the First

But strangely enough Adolf Hitler is not the first in Germany who has tried to make naught of the word of God. The so-called school of "Higher Criticism" is a German product, too. This school consisted of many "scholars" who "proved" the Bible to be everything it was not. Fifty years ago, too, of the leading German universities, Heidelberg and Munich, were offering scholarships to higher education to any student who could effectively "prove" the Bible as a book of non-

Roosevelt Plans Indirect Scheme Of Price Freezing

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, April 23.—When Mr. Roosevelt tried to push the word "inflation" out of the dictionary, as a descriptive term for our current economic predicament, he really had a new conception of a remedy, if not of the problem.

Advance notices of his intentions around in the government suggest he has conceived a new economic freezing apparatus.

He would freeze prices first, all prices. Then instead of trying to freeze union wages to that index he would tie them to a cost of living index, but not directly, only loosely, through the War Labor Board.

In other words, he would merely order the War Labor Board not to grant any more increases in cases brought before it, unless the cost of living index rises.

The administration figures this would prevent any union wage increase cases from ever getting to the board, as long as the cost of living remains the same as the base period, between February 25 and March 25.

Other Salaries Would Be Frozen

Other salaries would not be fixed, but the argument for increasing them generally would be frozen by the action on the cost of living.

The cost of living index, of course, is based on the prices of rent, light, bread, food, clothing and some other items, and not upon the general price level which may or may not fluctuate the same.

Farm prices would likewise be handled on this tie-freeze basis, without direct action, by the initial step of freezing the price a baker can charge for his bread or a butcher for pork chops, etc.

It is figured that the limitation on bread will be an automatic restraint on the price of wheat and the freezing of pork chops will hold corn-hog prices, etc., on through the farm commodity of last.

The political advantages of all this primary part of the plan, from the administration standpoint, lie in the fact that it is not proposed actually to freeze wages or farm prices themselves, but to get at them indirectly.

Has Other Aspects

There are other political aspects. In the discussion stage is an idea of confiscating all big wages above a certain amount, say $25,000 or $50,000 dollars. It would not bring in much revenue, but it would be popular with the labor and farm groups.

Another feature of the plan would confiscate all profits above six percent beyond all existing and proposed business taxes, but this has once been turned down in Congress.

The whole plan is subject, of course, to congressional approval.

Another thing: It seems now that when Price Fixer Leon Henderson and Vice President Wallace surrendered to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, there was an understanding that the voluntary method of raising money for the war would be continued beyond a few months only if it works, that is, only for a trial period.

Henderson and Wallace apparently were content to wait. Morgenthau intends to fool them by making it work.

Show Stolen

Willkie ran away with the publicity honors of the compromise adopted by the Republican National Committee at Chicago, but the opposition claimed a majority of the committee.

The senate cloakroom is comforted by the information that Mr. Willkie had only fifteen committeemen at an advance meeting in New York. He had more than that bare one-sixth of the ninety-six committeemen at Chicago, but the Washington boys think Taft would have won on a showdown by about fifty-five to thirty-five.

Where Willkie stole the show was not in the voting, but in the advance planning. He pulled no surprise on the senators. Before the meeting word came down here of what he intended.

But it was just not good patriotism, politics or sense from either his standpoint or theirs to start a row as Willkie well knew. Thus he had his opponents in a position where they were willing to give more than he did in a resolution pledging only post-war leadership of the world for the purposes of liberty and opposition to warfare.

Lead Horses

In this conflict, both Willkie and Taft were running like lead horses for 1944, and this was the most important aspect of the matter.

The resolution was written for the purpose of the coming congressional elections in which each individual candidate will run on his own platform anyway. The 1944 presidential nominating convention will determine the policy of that race.

And where was Mr. Dewey in the conflict—nowhere in sight. He has not shown up yet, but certainly when he runs for governor of New York state next fall.

Maryland Farm Musings

By the Extension Service of the University of Maryland

Trees or shrubs which have been badly broken by wind or heavy snow should be repaired quickly, say A. F. Vierheller, specialist in horticulture for the University of Maryland Extension Service. Shattered limbs should be pruned back or removed entirely and the wound should be treated with a good tree wound dressing or paint.

The extension service announces a new mimeographed publication on "Growing Tomatoes for Canning." The publication was prepared by Herman A. Hunter, specialist in canning crops, and Dr. C. H. Mahoney, head of the department of Horticulture. Copies may be obtained free of charge by writing the extension service, College Park, Md.

The National 4-H Club dairy production demonstration contest, which has proved profitable to 4-H Club members for the last three years, will again be held this year, according to an announcement by E. G. Jenkins, state boys club leader. The contest is sponsored by the extension service in co-operation with the Kraft Cheese Company.

The FHA Program And Its Results

THE FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION appears to have done quite a bit in providing needed homes for the people.

The annual report of the operation of this federal agency just issued by its chief, Abner H. Ferguson, shows that private building under its provisions produced a total of 218,035 small dwellings during 1941, which represented fifty per cent of the aggregate construction of privately-financed one-family homes.

Between July, 1940, and December, 1941, approximately 312,000 small houses were constructed under the FHA program. Approximately 180,000 of the dwellings built last year were in areas designated by the president as acutely in need of housing for war workers.

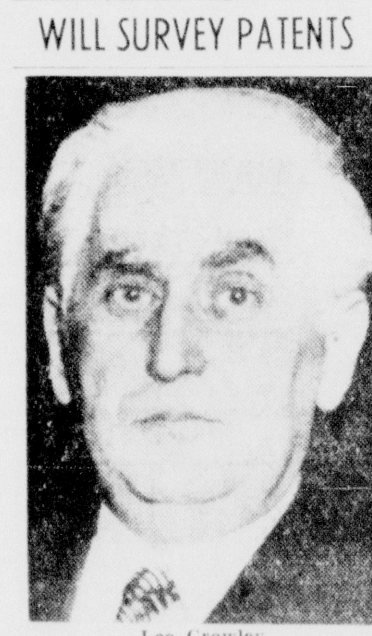

A gratifying feature of the report is that all operating expenses growing out of the various phases of the program are being met out of its revenues, without cost to the federal government, which is something of a novelty as government agencies go. Operating income from fees, premiums and investments totaled $26,877,951 in 1941 and exceeded operating expenses by $13,903,032, as compared with $7,982,341 in 1940.

There were some who were dubious about this venture of government into the field of private enterprise, yet private enterprise was either not sufficiently alert or prepared to do what this agency has done, and the supplementary help it has provided has been justified without sacrificing private enterprise or capital, both of which it has employed.

With the cessation of private housing construction, ordered for the duration, some may believe the usefulness of this agency

Prosperity Comes to 'Desert Rats'; They Go to Work for the Movies

Harry Pickens... teller of tales

By LORENA CARLETON
Central Press Correspondent

GOLDFIELD, Ariz., April 23 — Old and grizzly, knees so bent they never will be straight again, genuine prospectors limped beside pack-laden burros to Goldfield, ghost mining area used as a set for the Gregory LaCava forthcoming picture, "Lady in a Jam."

There each antiquated desert rat received $4 a day and each burro $1.50 a day. That's not hay! (But the burros got hay besides.) They chewed and flopped their ears while the old desert coos squatted on their heels beside campfires and stirred "chuck" in battered tin-pans and coffee pots.

"Taint work," Lone Allen protested. "Just sittin' here."

"And swappin' tales about the old days," added Harry Pickens, another grizzled miner. Already dizzy with Hollywood's gold, Pickens was further bewitched when presented with several professional size prints of his own picture. "I'll send my daughter one of these. Haint seen her in 18 years."

These several men had hours to chin because, contrary to Chamber of Commerce claims, Arizona sunshine did not do its stuff. Gold wind sailed across cloud-shrouded Superstition mountain in a gale mightier than that off Cape Hatteras, and the sound technician testing with earphones—thereby keeping his ears warm at the same time, he was no, dope—reported that it sounded as though the company was filming "The Sea Wolf."

Mountain Background

Because of its magnificence La Cava selected Superstition as a background, also because it never had been used before. Now these ancient prospectors would not have been so relaxed if Superstition had been selected as the actual set rather than the backdrop. They wouldn't so much as have been there, for Superstition mountain in spite of being as innocently beautiful as a giant piece of colored rock candy, has a sinister reputation of Double Murder, Inc.

These mountains that appear as a narrow vertical range actually are over 300 square miles of crags and canyons, a wilderness that would have you wanting to bite your own throat after weeks of loneliness there.

Worse still, loneliness does not last. Someone kills you. Not you, specifically, but for example, Pedro Peralta of the famous gold-mining Peraltas, and his 60-odd followers. Two adventurers named Jacobs and Lodi, killed by a similar pair, Jacob Walz and Wisner.

It had been so easy to lift rifles and be rid of the former two as they bent over their rich mine that Walz, the famous Dutchman of mining history, decided to do a really masterful job. Again he lifted his rifle and got rid of Wisner, his partner, too.

This bonanza that the Dutchman had bought with blood was a dandy, running $10,000 to the ton of ore, but finally the combination of age and murdering those who attempted to trail him to his mine, caused his death.

Lost Dutchman Mine

Superstition has seen plenty of sun-bleached bones through the years, the latest being those of Adolph Ruth in 1931 who apparently had located the Lost Dutchman mine. At any rate the note: "I came, I saw, I conquered. Two hundred feet across from the cave," was beside the body.

Those tall yarns, both real and fabricated, were fun. Of course a movie set always is a source of fun. And of continual amazement. For one thing, the number of persons necessary to make a film. They're all over the place, dangling cables, moving lamps, and reflectors, the sound mechanism, the microphones, the cameras. The buildings also amazed. Though new, Grandma's House, The Lost Hope Saloon and the several others were weatherbeaten in that black way

ELIZABETHTOWN, N. Y. (AP)—If they're young men, chances are ten to one they're in the Army. That's what Mrs. Kathryn Warren, formerly of Hagerstown, Md., figured—and her logic produced amazingly happy results.

Seventeen years ago her children were taken away from her. She has searched futilely for them since. Several weeks ago she appealed to President Roosevelt, who got in touch with the War Department. One son was found at Fort George G. Meade, Md., and he supplied the addresses of the other children.

G-Men Nab Phoney Officer

SAN JUAN, P. R. (AP)—F. B. I. agents have arrested one Gaspar Ortega Nieves, 19, and charged him with posing as an army officer to obtain money from families of Puerto Ricans in the armed services.

Ortega was accused of telling soldiers' relatives the money would be used to pay for government property he said had been lost or destroyed and thus to obtain the release of the men in question from army prisons.

capital outlay, the original total was $46,573, but this was cut $12,301.35 to a final total of $34,271.65. The reduction was made to provide for a five per cent salary increase for school janitors and a ten per cent jump in payments to school bus contractors.

Nine Items Listed

There were nine items comprising the capital outlay fund. For payments on land at Allegany high and Geopart schools, there was a total of $11,000 provided—$7,500 for Allegany $3,500 for Geopart. Under improvements to sites, $2,500 was listed for grounds, $5,500 for capital expenditures.

Funds for "new buildings" included $10,000 for Beall elementary and $7,500 for Corriaganyville, while for alterations, Frederick Street was to cost $800 and Midland $500. The final item was the one in question, $2,573 payable to the city of Cumberland.

On the official copy, the $2,573 for the paving costs, the $7,500 for Allegany high and the $3,500 for Geopart school were checked as standing without change. The remaining figures were enclosed in brackets, which Hill said meant they were to be revised in the discretion of the school board to conform with the $12,301 cut in the total.

It was pointed out that these other figures could be modified for the simple reason that war conditions made it extremely unlikely if not impossible that the proposed construction and improvements could be carried out.

Specific Items Not Cut

Green stated specifically that although the total for capital outlay was reduced by $12,301, the commissioners, at the request of the school board, did not cut any specific items, leaving that entirely in the discretion of the school board. The idea, said Green, was to let the school board use the funds to the best advantage, and he added that it was felt that "Mr. Dashiell could handle the matter without interference."

The county officials said that although it may not have been definitely stated, the general understanding was that the $2,573 for the paving bill was to be kept intact, and in no event was it ordered stricken out by the commissioners. The allocation of the reduced amount for capital outlay was left entirely in the hands of the board of education, they concluded.

Raymond Burkett

the plane appeared to collapse and double up and then "pitch off" into a hollow to the right of the Mt. Savage-Corriaganyville road.

The crash occurred about 12:05 or 12:10 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, according to Burkett. He told neighbors what he had seen and word finally spread to an air raid spotter station from where state police were notified about 2:30 o'clock.

Search Proves Futile

Word of the crash in the area bounded by Corriaganyville, Ellerslie, Barreille and Wellersburg, Pa., resulted in the formation of numerous searching parties who futilely combed the wild terrain for hours. Planes from the Civilian Air Patrol flew over the area until after dark Wednesday and returned to the air yesterday morning. Some searching parties also returned to the general vicinity where the crash was reported but still no trace was found. Trooper Browning said using Burkett's information for a guide, he tramped over four hollows and ridges in another fruitless effort to find some tangible clue of the plane.

Local Delegation Attends Social Welfare Meeting

Changes in Agencies in War Period among Subjects Discussed

Material for the article, "The Working Child" dealing with the public assisted family, which was presented at the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Maryland State Conference of Social Welfare, Monday and Tuesday in Baltimore, was prepared by members of the Allegany County Welfare Board.

It concerned primarily the working child's place in the home, as a contributing member, what recognition it should receive of its needs from the home and should all its earnings be used to support the family, without something definite for its labors. An open forum followed and members attending from Cumberland will present the discussion for rediscussion here in the near future.

J. Milton Patterson, Baltimore, formerly of Cumberland, was chairman of the conference. Discussions were also held on the changes in the agencies during the period of war and the needs developing for the children and to bring people who need help into the planning. In Allegany county plans have already been underway for forming the Council of Social Agencies. The importance of everyone knowing about the agencies and their functions in order to be able to refer people to the correct agency, was stressed.

Attending from Cumberland were Mrs. Elizabeth Gower, Miss Jane Grindel, Miss Marian Hannon, Mrs. Helen J. Kameza, Miss Inez Nevy, Miss Elma Shipley, Mrs. Georgia Steiding and Miss Ethel Wilderman, members of the staff of the welfare board; and Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of the Associated Charities.

let will be Mrs. Ada Kirkpatrick, reader; Mrs. Viola MacKenzie, soprano, soloist; Mrs. Marie Lohr, Mrs. Elizabeth Lamp, Mrs. Arburus Lohr, Mrs. Martha Kalbaugh, Mrs. Elizabeth Landis and Mrs. Hilda Funkhouser and Miss Adeline MacKenzie taking part. Mrs. Aurora Golladay will be accompanist.

Price Freezing and Tax Gloom Cause Stocks To Resume Decline

Many Leaders Sell Off from Fractions to Two Points

By BERNARD S. O'HARA
NEW YORK, April 23 (AP)—Price-freezing and tax gloom enveloped Wall street today as the stock market resumed its long decline after a few rallying sessions.

The slide was broad and fairly steep for many of the leaders. Closing losses generally ranged from fractions to more than two points. Many new lows for the last year or more were established.

Ignoring a brighter foreign news picture the market went in for more belt-tightening in adjustment to the comprehensive controls the government will announce shortly for dealing with inflation.

Penetrating last Friday's bottom range the Associated Press 60-stock composite dropped .8 of a point to the lowest since April 28.

Share dealings totaled 429,473 shares compared with 257,030 yesterday.

Only 82 Advances
Emphasizing the market's one-sided character, there were only 82 advances against 494 declines. There were 161 issues unchanged.

Among the leaders reaching new low territory for a year or longer were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Boeing, Douglas, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Sperry, American Telephone, Anaconda, Kennecott, Eastman Kodak and Standard Oil (N.J.). Giving up 1 to 2 or more points were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Harvester, American Can, Westinghouse, duPont, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville and Philip Morris. Ralls had fractional losses with the widest in Sante Fe and Chesapeake & Ohio.

Curb shares also were hit with heaviest losses in aluminum of America, American Cyanamid, Col's Patent Firearms, Gulf Oil, Heyden Chemical, and Humble Oil. Creole Petroleum and Pentepec Oil were steady. Transactions here were about 68,990 shares compared with 44,000 the previous day.

The bond market absorbed some of the pessimism existing in other financial quarters, losing fractions to around a point in the main group of domestic corporates. A few bright spots included substantial gains in some foreign dollar loans, persistent support for a few favored rails and industrials which kept them in the plus column most of the day.

Trading expanded slightly, reaching $8,651,600, par value, against $7,202,600 on Wednesday.

Rail Shares Decline
Active on the downturn were, among others, Baltimore & Ohio convertibles of '60 at 22 1/2, Southern Pacific 4 1/2s at 53 1/2, Missouri Pacific 5s at 30 1/2, International Hydro Electric 6s at 26 1/2, Lehigh Valley 4s at 43 1/2 and Rock Island General 4s at 25.

Resistance to the main trend were

Southern Railway 4s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s, Laclede Gas 5 1/2, Ann Arbor 4s and Kansas City Southern 3s.

U. S. governments gave up small sums on the stock exchange and over the counter.

BABY "TANK-ON-LEGS" FIRST BORN IN CAPTIVITY

Greatly resembling miniature war tanks mounted on legs, four little nine-banded armadillo were born in Cleveland zoo. They are believed to be the first of the species ever born in captivity. Mama Armadillo and the four youngsters, all reported doing well, are pictured above.

This Is Just Like the Fourth of July

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—County Road Patrolman J. R. Carmichael saw smoke coming from the glove compartment of his patrol car and hastily alighted to try to extinguish the blaze because he had a loaded service revolver and two boxes of shotgun shells stored there.

But before he could deal with the fire, the ammunition started going off and kept up such a barrage he had to take shelter behind a tree while the car was burned up.

Note to Gift-Senders: No P.J.'s In Army

FT. WARREN, Wyo. (AP)—The private research project carried on by Pvt. Lester H. Geiss of the Quartermaster Replacement Training Center leaves but one conclusion: The army sleeps in its underwear.

Soldiers aren't issued pajamas. Private Geiss visited Cheyenne clothing stores and couldn't find a single merchant who ever had sold a pair of pajamas to a Fort Warren soldier.

The word, in Latin, means "little bell."

Skill at Testing Chickens Keeps Six Japs in Britain

LONDON (AP)—The only Japanese who are tolerated in Britain at present are six chicken sexers who were released from internment by Home Secretary Morrison.

British poultry keepers told him the industry could not get on without them. "We would like to but we can't," said one poultry farmer.

Each of the Japanese is able to sex a thousand one-day chicks an hour, work a ten-hour day, and be wrong only about once in 400. At the height of the season they get $5 a thousand, which means they can make about $250 for a five-day week.

Sexers of other nationalities do well to test 500 chicks an hour.

Launchings Keep Navy Wife Busy

FAIR HAVEN, N. J. (AP)—Helen of Troy wasn't the only one who could launch ships. Mrs. Neil B.

Weirich, whose husband is a lieutenant commander attached to the Third Naval District, New York, launched two in as many days.

After she had accepted an invitation to launch a minesweeper, Commander Weirich confessed he had forgotten to tell her that he had promised she would sponsor a training craft the next day. It was too late to cancel and Mrs. Weirich christened both craft.

THE DAILY STORY
PICNIC SHOES
It Should Have Happened Only in Fiction or the Movies—
That's Why It Nearly Ruined the Real Life Story of Janey

By IRMA CLEVELAND
The real, blue-blooded luxuries for it was something which happened when she sometimes felt a tiny longing. Handsome cars. A home that sprawled over an acre. Maids and cooks and butlers. Trips, $135 sports dresses. Sometimes she had Janey Warren—five feet five, 115 pounds, born of good, five-generation-back American stock, 32 years old, and her life had been pleasantly simple before David Lanning had walked into it.

Then, there had been Tommy. Tommy, without much money, who called her 'Chick' and made fun of her when she had her spells of common sense as she called them. She knew that Tommy would never get around to making much money. Not the kind which brought you around for?

"He's not so old," Janey had argued defensively, "and besides, we're merely good friends and he treats me like a princess."
He did. There always orchids arriving before David. There was dinner a la carte and champagne cocktails before that. Janey always came home feeling pampered and princess-like.
Then, a week ago, David had proposed to her. It had been a flowery, fervent proposal and had sounded like pages out of a magazine story. Janey had been so surprised and nervous that she had trembled all over and hadn't been able to give him any answer. He had suggested that she wait until the next time he came into town to tell him whether or not she would consent to become Mrs. Lanning.
The first Mrs. Lanning had died five years ago. David wanted Janey to be the "lovely, gay second lady of the house" (houses—he should have said). He wanted to be able to buy her everything and take her everywhere, to show all his friends how beautiful she was.
She had never figured she was particularly beautiful. Tommy never mentioned much about it. But then, Tommy wasn't given over to the use of flowery phrases. It was nice hearing such pretty words from David—even though she did half-blame them on his having to wear glasses and being rather old.
Old. Was being 35 old? Not really, she decided. He looked old because of his all-gray hair and his being somewhat overweight. Exercise would take off those extra pounds, tennis, swimming, hiking, the kind of thing she and Tommy did together. But David never seemed much interested in that kind of pastime. She couldn't imagine herself playing a rousing game of tennis with David or trailing through the woods on a crazy spur-of-the-moment hamburger fry with him.
And so she arrived at this wholly dramatic situation. She must choose between David and Tommy, between orchids and onions (with hamburgers, of course), champagne and beer. Between five homes and one apartment. It was pretty much to expect of just an ordinary girl like Janey Warren.
She walked over to her clothes closet. There hung the white formal that David wanted her to wear to that important dinner party tonight, tonight when he arrived in town and expected to know her answer. He had called her from New York.
At the other end of the closet was her old plaid skirt and her crepe-soled, scuffed up picnic shoes. On another hanger was the comfortable looking old sweater smelling of wood smoke and slightly of hamburgers. And, on a hook, was the red kerchief she always tied around her hair when she ran off on crazy, spontaneous outings with Tommy.
The phone rang. It was David. "Hello, lovely, is it all right? Will you be able to go tonight?"
"David, may I call you back? I'm not sure."
And, five minutes later, the phone rang again. It was Tommy. "Hello, Chick. Get on your rags and try some hamburgers in the woods. How about it?"
"Tommy, may I call you back? I'm not sure."
She went back upstairs. She walked back and forth and back and forth. This was her great dramatic moment. She felt definitely like Ethel Barrymore or Norma Shearer or the heroine in a Kathleen Norris novel. She was suffering in the fact of a great decision.
She went back to the telephone and made two calls. Then she went back to the clothes closet. She took out the white formal and looked at it for a second. There were little glittering mirrors or sequins on it. She could see herself, a white orchid in her hair, diamonds on her fingers and wrists, her own car, trips to exotic places, cooks, butler, maids, Mrs. David Lanning. She put the formal back in the

Primping Often Makes Girl Late For High School

No Easy Problem for Parents, Dr. Garry Myers Reports

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
"My 14-year-old daughter will get the alarm clock at 4:30 a. m. in order to primp for school. Even when she may arrive at school late."

The mother told me recently, "She might have been said in any place in the United States."

The mother also said she wore herself out getting this daughter off to school. "I help her all I can," she added. "She makes good grades at school but is so often tardy. Her father gets very angry at her."

Not a Simple Problem
This is no easy problem, since it is so far-reaching in its effect. Fortunately, this mother indicated an understanding of the girl's desire to primp and said her daughter is to her a great deal about her personal interests and experiences.

Many other mothers have reported to me that an adolescent daughter will spend one, two or more hours primping at bedtime. As with this girl, there is a big problem of adequate sleep.

Just what to do about this matter I am not so sure. I am sure, however, the more the parent fusses and fumes the worse it grows to be. It might help some daughters to keep an exact record of the time they spend in this way. Apparently the problem is most serious when "dates" are beginning to develop.

For do these extreme cases often mingle much with many other girls. A highly respected woman teacher might get over to these girls in the

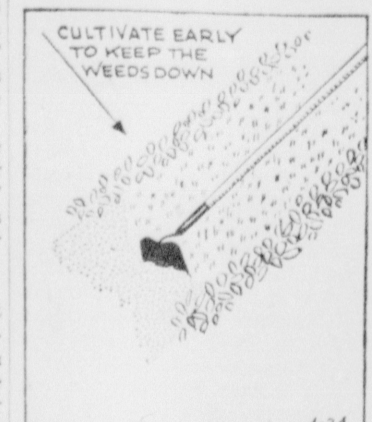

TODAY'S VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(Distributed by Central Press Association)

CULTIVATION KEEPS WEEDS DOWN IN VICTORY

Weeds cause injury in the vegetable garden in numerous ways. They shade the crops, as they are faster-growing; they steal nourishment and rob moisture from the soil, aside from being unsightly.

Cultivation is necessary to keep down weeds. It also aerates the soil and forms a dust mulch which conserves moisture. Furthermore, rain will be able to seep deeply into the soil and not run off, as occurs when the ground is hard.

As illustrated in the Garden-Graph, the best time to destroy weeds is just after they start. If the crops are cultivated once a week, especially during the early part of the season, weeds will be kept under control and the crops will get all the benefit of the moisture and soil fertility.

regular group that attractiveness does not consist solely of physical appearance. That indeed, the primping tends to become very selfish and, to this degree, rather unlikable. Some teachers, even mothers, are able to help the girl learn to make herself physically attractive in far less time. I have a notion, however, that primping, when the mother does not fuss about it, affords considerable relaxation and, therefore, in moderation, can have good mental health values.

The tardiness-to-school problem of the teen-age girl may demand some coercive measures, if authority can be made effective. But mothers who merely nag might as well surrender. A few mothers with self-control, might be able to quit talking awhile and help the tardy child get ready for school.

I wish the school were more severe with chronic tardiness, especially at the high school level, just for training in citizenship. One penalty might be to let the chronic offender sit doing nothing for an hour after she arrives late, or sit an hour doing nothing after school, in case she did not come by school bus. In fit weather, this offender might be made to walk back and forth constantly for an hour between definite limits on the athletic field.

At the elementary school age the mother should be able to prevent or cure chronic tardiness at school. Let the child know just when she must leave home for school; that if she leaves a minute late, she will have to remain home half or all day, and sit doing nothing all day—no books, comics, radio—in everybody's sight fifty minutes at a stretch, with ten minute recesses. Then when primping time arrives reasonable home controls might prove effective, if necessary.

Solving Parent Problems
Q You say children should walk to school when the distance is not excessive. What about the young child who must pass through dangerous traffic?

A Some very young children need to be protected by their parents on the way to and from school. But let these parents walk with their children. It will be good for the health of the parents.

Q What about the parent who is walking with her young child to school a few blocks from home cuts across the street anywhere and violates other traffic rules?

A She is thinking of getting him to school and probably in safety. She is not thinking of training him so he, later, will be safe in going alone. She is doing about the worst possible thing to train for safety and citizenship. All our guidance of the child should be in terms of his future, not for just this minute.

Q What do you think of the parent who, knowing that her teen-age youth played hookey the day before will write an excuse saying he was sick?

A That parent is one of the worst citizens I can think of, giving her child about the best possible education to become a criminal. Yet, all over the United States junior and senior high school principals are telling me that many parents, especially among the well-to-do, are party to this culpable practice, and that it is undermining school discipline.

Governor Neely Names New Public Assistance Council in Jefferson

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 23 (AP) — The personnel of a new Jefferson County Public Assistance Council, named by Governor Neely to replace another which was removed, was announced Wednesday by State Public Assistant Director Raymond Kenny.

Kenny announced yesterday that the services of all four appointive members of the council had been terminated by Governor Neely because of a desire to give better representation to various sections of the county and for other reasons.

The new members are I. N. Bonham of Summit Point and Mrs. Carl Riddleberger of Charles Town, Democrats; and Mrs. William B. Snyder of Shepherdstown and Benjamin H. Riddleberger of Charles Town, Republicans.

J. M. Garrott of Shenandoah Junction, who as county commissioner was ex-officio a member of the old council, will continue to serve.

The new members replace Chairman Milton Burr of Bardonia and H. R. Cronise of Harpers Ferry, Democrats; and Dr. Henry T. McDonald and Charles J. Derr, both of Harpers Ferry, Republicans.

We Want the American Way of Life When War Is Over, Funkhouser Says

G.O.P. Candidate for Congressional Nomination Speaks at Rally

PETERSBURG, W. Va., April 23 — "We are willing to make any conceivable sacrifice to win this war; we will permit dictatorship for the duration but when the war is over, we want the American way of life returned to us," Raymond J. Funkhouser, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress from the Second congressional district of West Virginia told party members at a public meeting in Petersburg tonight.

"But if the New Dealers are still in power, can we hope that they will willingly permit us to enjoy American liberty and privileges such as were guaranteed under the constitution?" Funkhouser asked his audience.

Democrats Needed

"There isn't a chance to elect candidates running on the Republican ticket unless a lot of good Democrats vote for them and the type of men most needed in Washington is not going to be on the ticket unless a lot of Democrats before-hand express their intention to vote for those running on the Republican ticket," Funkhouser continued.

"The political situation is so grave and the immediate future is too important for us to be influenced by our party affiliations, if by doing so New Dealers would be returned to Congress this fall," the speaker warned.

"I hope too," Funkhouser said, "that the six Republican candidates will be of the caliber and character that will be worthy of endorsement, and that there will not be a contest in any of the Congressional districts."

250 Attend Meeting

The crusade I am advocating, if backed by the good citizens of this state, will tend to encourage only qualified Republicans to announce their candidacy and if the good Democrats will give expression to their intentions to vote for the type of men of their preference, it is my opinion that they will have the opportunity to vote for such men," Funkhouser stated.

Approximately 250 people from six West Virginia counties attended the mass rally in the county court house and opened the program with the singing of "America."

Attorney E. L. Judy, Petersburg, introduced Funkhouser and Owen Schaffer acted as chairman of the meeting, which was arranged by J. M. Reid.

Known as "The Mud Cake," But Rock Island Arsenal Is Mainspring of War Effort

General Ramsey

Machine guns, too

Experimental tanks

By JACK W. THOMPSON
Central Press Correspondent

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., April 23.—Any person who studied eighth grade geography no doubt learned that the Mississippi river separates Illinois and Iowa. Not everyone, perhaps, realizes that out here in the mid-west, where everyone is supposed to grow corn and raise hogs, cattle and horses, Uncle Sam has a $400,000,000 investment in a "mud cake" square dab in the center of the Father of Waters linking the industrial and commercial centers of Moline and Rock Island, Ill., and Davenport, Ia.

Now with the United States engaged in war up to the hilt, and production of defense material being increased at feverish pace, it's almost impossible to calculate the real value to the war effort of this nearly half-billion-dollar investment.

The "mud-cake" is a 900-acre island, known as Rock Island, on which is located the largest (in size) of the government's six manufacturing arsenals. It not only is the largest arsenal in the world but also has the greatest potentialities of any arsenal on the globe.

More Than 10,000 Men
Although its present employment is not as great as one of the other five government manufacturing arsenals, Rock Island hums with activity day and night as more than 10,000 men, working in three shifts, six days a week, are turning out war supplies for the United States Army Ordnance department. During 1941 the average daily employment at the arsenal was 9,091 as compared with 5,794 for 1940, a gain of nearly 57 per cent. In 1931 the average daily employment was only 832.

In command of the arsenal is silver-haired, erect Brig. Gen. Norman P. Ramsey. He is the 15th commandant of the arsenal and the second to hold the rank of general. The general will be 90 years old this year. He has been awarded numerous citations, including the Soldiers' Medal for heroism awarded him for bravery at the Lake Denmark naval ammunition depot explosion and fire July 11, 1926, while he was in command of Picatinny arsenal at Dover, N. J. Among other awards are the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Philippine Campaign Medal. On active duty at the arsenal with General Ramsey are 35 other United States Army officers, ranging from rank of second lieutenant to colonel.

Sixteen major items of material now are being manufactured at Rock Island arsenal and this list ever is subject to increase. Explaining that the arsenal really serves as a laboratory for industry, General Ramsey states, "There must be no mistake in our plans and blueprints." It was Rock Island arsenal that prepared plans and specifications for the M-3 tank, unveiled in 1941 at the Detroit tank arsenal in Detroit and at American Locomotive's plant at Eddystone, Pa. In fact, Chrysler engineers, after visiting the arsenal, returned to their Detroit plant with 186 pounds of blueprints for the Army's newest and largest tank.

Sometimes ago it was confirmed by the war department in Washington that machinery invented by William Baumbeck, chief superintendent of production at the arsenal, will be installed to make rifle machine gun barrels from 15 to 20 times faster than old methods. Although it manufactured 20,000

Although the "mud cake" was purchased by the federal government in 1864, the arsenal itself is only about 79 years old, as it was on Aug. 13, 1863, six weeks after the capture of Vicksburg and the battle of Gettysburg, that Maj. C. P. Kingsbury of the Army Ordnance department was assigned to the duty of constructing the arsenal. The building, known locally as the Clock Tower building, still is standing at the western end of the island and is occupied by the Dock Island district of U. S. Army Engineers.

Georgia Lawyers Named To Probe Slavery Charges

William Cunningham Accused of Forcing Negroes To Work

WASHINGTON, April 23 (P)—Attorney General Biddle appointed two Georgia lawyers to help direct an investigation by a federal grand jury at Macon, Ga., into "the alleged slavery practices of William T. Cunningham of Lexington, Ga."

The lawyers, who will have the rank of special assistant to the attorney general, are Barry Wright of Rome and William Anderson

Sutherland of Atlanta. They will co-operate with T. Hoyt Davis, United States attorney for the middle district of Georgia, in the investigation.

Report "System of Slavery"

The justice department said in a statement that it had complaints of Cunningham had established "a system of slavery on his Oglethorpe county plantation."

"According to the complaints," the department said, "Oglethorpe county court records show that Cunningham has repeatedly charged negro field hands who left or "escaped" his employment with past misdemeanors, re-employing them after their arrest and after short terms on the chain gang.

Gets Labor from Jails

"The complaints allege that Cunningham recruited a substantial part of his plantation labor from local jails by paying the fines of negro prisoners and, in some instances, arranging for their bond and for the subsequent dismissal of charges against them. On one occasion, the complaints charge, Cunningham accompanied an Oglethorpe county officer to Chicago, Ill., to assist in an unsuccessful attempt to extradite three former employees whom he had caused to be indicted after leaving his employment."

Radio Networks Will Give Reports Of Relay Games

Bob Hawk Quiz Will Come from South Bend, Ind., at 7:30

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD
NEW YORK, April 23.—Broadcasts of two of the country's important spring relay games will be started on two networks Friday afternoon. They will comprise summaries of the running of the first day's events. To 4:30 CBS will have the Penn relays, while MBS will report the Drake relays at 6:15, the former from Philadelphia and the latter from Des Moines.

Bob Hawk will do his weekly CBS quiz from South Bend. The reason therefore is that the orchestra in his program, Vaughn Monroe, is playing for the senior prom at the University of Notre Dame. The

Two Wrecks, Theft—Same Car, Same Day

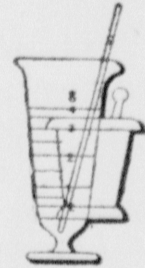

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—R. M. Aiken, employee of the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, thought it was bad enough when another machine clipped his front fender, but his troubles had only begun.

A policeman ordered both cars moved a short distance away while a conference was called to agree on damages. When Aiken returned for his car it was gone, but it turned up when officers went to another accident in which the stolen car had piled into a light pole. The car was wrecked twice and stolen once in the same day.

Annual Play Day Held by Six High Schools

Program Is Presented at Frostburg State Teachers College

Pupils of six Allegany and Garrett county high schools took part in the annual play day events held Tuesday from 12:30 to 5 p. m., at Frostburg State Teachers college under auspices of the Women's Recreational Association of the college.

The purpose of the annual play day meet is to provide an opportunity for the girls from the several schools to play with rather than against each other.

Play Several Sports
The sports events were participated in by groups designated as the Army, Navy, Submarine, Cavalry, Bombardier, Medical Corps, Signal Corps, Minute Women, and the Marine Corps. The leaders of these groups were Betty Conrad, Harriet Brode, Thelma Close, Mary Louise Larkins, Betty B. Wilson, Thelma Manahan, Rachel Lovell, Adlyn McCane, Beulah Walter, and Evelyn Simmons.

Each service unit participated in at least one period of major games. These major games were basketball, football, volleyball, and base ball. Also each unit participated in at least one period of such minor games as badminton, ping pong, relay games, deck tennis and shuffleboard. The skills and challenges in which each unit participated were hop-skip-and-jump, basketball throw, tumbling, ropejumping, quoits, hopscotch, and dancing.

In Charge of Event
Leah Stakem, president of the Women's Recreational Association, was general chairman of the play day. She was assisted by the following committees: Publicity—Katharine Lang, Elvie Bowman, and Sue Holt; Registration—Frances Coblenz, Emma Mae Brandenburg, and Betty Price; Program—Betty V. HYNDMAN, Pa., April 23—The North Selective Service registration for men between the ages of forty-one and sixty-four from Hyndman borough and Londonderry township will be conducted April 27 from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. in the council chamber in Hyndman.

Registration for the rationing of sugar for commercial users in the Hyndman and Londonderry sections will be held April 28 and 29 in Hyndman high school from 3 to 10 p. m. The classification includes wholesalers, retailers, restaurant owners, etc.

Registration of the retail consumers will be conducted May 4, 5, 6, and 7 in the Hyndman school from 7 to 9 p. m. each day.

People of Londonderry township will register in the Consolidated school.

Members of the faculty of Hyndman public schools will conduct the registration.

67,697 Cars Loaded
On B and O for Week

Carloads handled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad during the week ended April 18, totaled 67,697, consisting of 40,376 loaded on line and 27,321 received from connections. This was an increase of 21,188 carloads over the same week of last year when the total was 46,509 comprising 29,480 loaded on line and 16,709 received from connections.

During the previous week (the week ended April 11) the total was 47,247 including 40,634 loaded on line and 26,613 received from connections. Carloads handled during the same period of 1930 were 66,118 made up of 44,101 loaded on line and 22,115 received from connections.

Right Number,
Wrong Party
SOMERSWORTH, N. H. (AP) — State and county officials were finding an illegal horse race betting establishment when the telephone rang. Sheriff Stephen W. Sutton answered.

"Is this Eddie?" a voice inquired. "Yes, this is Eddie," the sheriff replied.

"Well, get everything under control right away," the voice commanded, "the cops are raiding spots Dover (a nearby town)."

"Don't worry about it," said the sheriff, "everything's under control already."

Garrett Officials Told Not To Start New Road Projects

Order Will Not Affect Present County Work,
Commissioners Say

OAKLAND, April 23—Instructions not to start any new road projects in this county were received by Garrett County Commissioners from the Public Roads Administration this week.

The order does not affect the construction work already started on four roads in the county, but will reduce other road work to maintenance only, according to Walter L. Hull, county roads engineer.

No reduction in county roads employees is anticipated as it is expected that the four roads now under construction will keep the men busy for some time.

Clearing the right of way for construction of 5.22 miles of new road in the Selbyport area in relocating the present highway that is to be flooded by waters from the new government flood control dam on the Youghiogheny river, was started on Tuesday, Hull said.

This will be a sixteen-foot stone base highway and the contract was recently awarded to the Cumberland Contracting Company. The construction calls for an outlay of $118,000 by the Federal government.

Local labor is to be used, according to Paul Friend, county commissioner. Other roads now under construction by the county roads department include the Smouse road, near Loch Lynn, the Bittinger-Rock Lodge road, and the Blooming Rose road. Twelve miles of construction work will not be affected by the order, it was stated.

C. W. Elrick Dies

Charles Wesley Elrick, 82, Gormanian merchant, died at his home yesterday morning, after an illness of about two weeks. He suffered an attack of influenza which was followed a few days ago by a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Elrick was a son of the late Jonathan and Rebecca Elrick, of Pennsylvania, and had resided in Gormanian since 1906. He was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Surviving are two daughters and three sons, J. Edward Elrick, of Mt. Storm, W. Va.; Austin H. Elrick, Gormanian; Wesley M. Elrick, Misses Nellie and Cora Elrick, all at home; also five grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Kennell, Wellersburg, Pa. His wife died several years ago.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday from Gormanian Presbyterian church, with Rev. A. S. Gear, minister, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Raymond Simpson. Interment will be in the Rose Hill cemetery, Cumberland.

Masons Attend School

Approximately 106 Masons of the Fourteenth District attended the regional school and banquet held in Piedmont Wednesday afternoon with Mt. Carbon Lodge, No. 29, acting as host.

W. C. Levering, Romney, grand lecturer, conducted the school of instructions.

H. R. Brown, manager of the local Legion drum corps announced that the drum corps will parade Friday evening to promote the sale of defense bonds and stamps.

EMPLOYEES OF FOUR MORE LOCAL FIRMS ARE BUYING BONDS

The payroll deduction plan by which employees buy War bonds and stamps gained ground recently with the announcement that four additional Cumberland firms have subscribed 100 per cent to the program.

Charles M. Stump and George W. Barnard, representing the Life Underwriters Association, which is handling the program, said these firms are Rosenbaum Brothers department store, 135 employees; Schwarzenbach and Son, twenty-one employees; G. C. Murphy Company, eighty-four employees; and J. G. McCrory Company, fifty-six employees.

These firms will be awarded a certificate from the Treasury Department of the United States, and are entitled to display a "Minute Man" flag.

All employers who have not as yet been solicited by the committee to inaugurate the payroll deduction plan for the purchase of Stamps and Bonds have been requested to contact Charles A. Piper, state committeeman, at The Liberty Trust Company.

With the inauguration of the pledge campaign, it is expected that the sales of War Bonds and Stamps will be materially increased. This campaign will be conducted on May 3, 4 and 5th, in the various school houses in the county, when the sugar rationing system is put into effect.

15.5 Inches of Snow Fall in W. Va. in March

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., April 23 (AP) — Almost everyone realized there was a lot of snow in West Virginia during March, but the United States Weather Bureau figured out today that it averaged 15.5 inches over the state, 9.4 inches above normal. Temperatures averaged 44.1 degrees, 1.7 above normal.

Accepts New Parish

An assessment of $94,000.00 at $1.38 on each one hundred dollars of assessable property equals $1,297,200.00; which with the tax from Bank Stock $6,000.00; Corporation Franchise Tax $2,000.00; the amount due from the State for the maintenance of insane $7,920.00; estimated amount of interest on taxes of $14,000.00; estimated from liquor license $15,000.00; from the State Roads Commission for Bond Retirement $65,620.00; from the Board of Education to apply on School Loan of 1936, $1,000.00; from State Comptroller, County's allocation of Income Tax $10,000.00; anticipated receipts from Jail $1,600.00; Magistrates $2,000.00; Peoples' Court $3,000.00; from paid patients in State Hospitals $4,000.00; and an aggregate of unexpended balances of $379,070.93 from the previous levy, making a total of $1,808,410.93.

The State Tax rate is fixed by statute at Fourteen Cents (.14) on each one hundred dollars of assessable property, which added to one dollar and thirty-eight cents ($1.38) for County purposes makes a total of One Dollar and fifty-two cents ($1.52) on each one hundred dollars of assessable property in Allegany County as the tax rate for the year 1942.

By an act of the General Assembly of Maryland, at its 1931 session, a discount of five per cent (5%) will be allowed on County Taxes if paid on or before the last day of June of four per cent (4%) if paid on or before the last day of July of three per cent (3%) if paid on or before the last day of August.

No discount will be allowed on taxes after the latter date. Interest at the rate of one-half of one per centum per month, or fractional part thereof shall be charged from the 31st of August.

Chapter 261 of the Acts of 1918 of the Public General Laws of Maryland, provides that no discount will be allowed on State Taxes. Interest at the rate of one-half of one per cent per month will be collected from October 1st.

Kings Row" Is Much Discussed Picture

One of Hollywood's most discussed pictures in years arrives in town this week at the Liberty theater. "Kings Row," screen adaptation of the best-seller novel, opens Friday.

Many factors have contributed to making both public and professional curiosity about the manner which Warner Bros. would deal with "Kings Row," not the least, of which, being the book, by Henry Mann, which led the best sellers for more than a year. Ann Sheridan, Ronald Reagan, Bert Cummings and Betty Field starred, and the brilliant supporting cast includes Charles Coburn, Judith Anderson, Claude Rains, Nancy Coleman, Kaaren Verne, Maria Ouspenskaya and Harry Davenport.

"Kings Row" is the story of a tiny midwestern town, and the lives of four young people who grew up there. The action of the story spans the years from 1890 to 1940, but it might have happened at any time—or any place. It is a tale of love and hate, bitter tragedy and rich comedy, mixed in just the proportions that these elements are in the real life.

Harlow's Stand-In Gets Leading Role

When a Hollywood stand-in wins a supporting role in a film—that's interesting. But when she becomes a leading lady in her second picture—that's news!

So the strawberry blonde Jean Harlow, former double for the late Joan Crawford, who appears opposite Bud Abbott and her two cronies, King and Andy Clyde, in Paramount's "Outlaws of the Desert," latest "Hopalong Cassidy" romance which opened yesterday at the Embassy theater.

Entering the film capital as a new City beauty contest winner, Harlow proved to be exactly the same as the late Joan Harlow—5 ft. 3 1/2 inches tall, weighing 104 pounds—and won a permanent job as the star's stand-in. She later emerged as a full-fledged leading lady, shattering Hollywood's old rule that the alter-egos of the stars should be seen and not heard. From audience and critical acclaim, Jeanie is in for a longtime display on the silver screen—and she'll be seen and heard plenty!

CO-STARS OF 'SABOTEUR'

Robert Cummings and Norman Lloyd in Alfred Hitchcock's Universal production, "Saboteur," in which Cummings is co-starred with Priscilla Lane. Lloyd has the title role. The film starts Saturday at the Strand theater.

Mirth and Romance Featured in "Rio Rita"

As long as America can laugh, as it did yesterday at the Maryland theater, there can be no cause for worry about the state of the nation. The occasion was the opening of "Rio Rita," with Bud Abbott and Lou Costello as the starring comedians.

To counterbalance the mirth with a measure of romance and music, Kathryn Grayson and John Carroll play the dramatic roles and offer an unusually tuneful accompaniment. An additional attraction is the graceful dancing of Eros Volusia, sensational star of Brazil, who makes her screen debut.

"Rio Rita" was produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer primarily for merriment and song. The drama is presented with a wink and a chuckle as mere mortal to hold together an entertaining plot.

The comedians come into the story as stowaways in the turtleback of a roadster driven by Carroll as he searches for his boyhood sweetheart, Rio Rita. He finds her in the person of Miss Grayson, but his supercargo discovers a basket of apples which turn out to be radios intended for a gang of spies.

"Saboteur" Is Vivid Story of Fifth Column

Heralded as the great Alfred Hitchcock's most brilliant directorial achievement to date, "Saboteur," which co-stars Priscilla Lane and Robert Cummings, comes Saturday to the Strand theater. Based on Hitchcock's own original story idea, the Universal film is motivated by the desperate efforts of fifth columnists to check Uncle Sam's drive for victory.

Highlighting "Saboteur" is a cross-country chase in which Cummings, portraying a Glendale, California, aircraft factory worker falsely accused of sabotage, sets out to track down the real saboteur in order to clear his own name—a man-hunt that is brought to a climax in New York Harbor. The plot is fast moving, covering, as it does, a time elapse of only five days as its characters are sped across thirteen states.

Both Miss Lane and Cummings, best known to theater-goers for their light comedy characterizations, are said to go tragically serious in this vehicle which rates as one of the year's most pretentious cinematic undertakings from the standpoint of outstanding performances and production mounting.

Heading the roster of 1500 players appearing in support of the two stars is Norman Lloyd, who was imported to Hollywood by Hitchcock to play the title role. Other featured thespians include Otto Kruger, Alan Baxter, Alma Kruger, Clem Bevans and Dorothy Peterson.

UNBLOCKING IS PRETTY SOME OF the nicest plays in the game, either to make or to see, are those in which you have to throw away a high card deliberately in order to get it out of the way of lower-rank cards in the opposite hand. Many a contract cannot be made in any other way. It is especially spectacular if an ace has to be discarded, most especially if it is tossed upon not a winning, but a losing card in another suit.

Here we found Charles H. Porter, great Cincinnati product, showing the acumen which has made him an important cog in our war production as a high official of the Anaconda Copper organization. Because of vulnerability, he refused to be satisfied with the score which could be made against the opponents' 4-Spades, which North, he could tell, would be almost sure to double, and which, as it turned out, might be set only about three tricks. When he bid 4-No Trumps, however, and West's double was followed by North's redouble, he set himself a terrific job to make the contract.

He took the third club trick, East having given a high-low signal, and then ran five hearts. This left dummy the diamond K-J and the spade K-Q-J. His own hand possessing the diamond A-4 and three little clubs. West had held on to the spade A-9 and the diamond Q-10-6, and East two spades, two diamonds and the club J.

His only chance was to find two entries to the dummy, one so that he could use a spade to knock out the A, and another to get back in the dummy and score the last two spades. Knowing from the bidding that West had the spade A, and from the first three leads that he did not have the club J, also that West had only a singleton heart originally, West was marked as holding three diamonds, thereby making it almost sure he had the Q.

So he led the diamond 4 and finessed the J successfully. Next the spade K was led and the diamond A discarded. West won this, but then could only lead into North's set-up spades and diamond K.

Prolonged Blackout Test Monday, April 27, Will Affect City and County

Col. Henry S. Barrett Will Check Results; Hour and Length of Test Not Designated

A prolonged blackout of Cumberland and Allegany county will be staged Monday, April 27, during the Western Maryland inspection tour of Col. Henry S. Barrett, state air raid precaution director. It was announced last evening by W. Earl Brooks, chief air raid warden of Allegany county.

Brooks said the whole county will be affected by the blackout which will be signalled at an unannounced hour Monday.

When questioned as to how long the blackout will be in force, Brooks replied, "No starting hour or specified length of time for the blackout has been designated but I can give assurance that it will be longer than fifteen minutes."

"Real Blackout Test"

Allegany county's chief air warden told Col. Barrett yesterday that it will be a "real blackout test" and the full protective service organization will be brought into action.

Raid incidents will be simulated, he added, to give the workers a drill under blackout conditions. Barrett and Brooks will make a personal check of the functioning of the civilian defense setup during the blackout which may last two hours or longer.

Industries vital to defense and the railroads will be excused, Brooks pointed out, but their co-operation as much as possible will be appreciated.

Cumberland's initial blackout test was held the latter part of December, 1941, and was regarded as being a success. Local plant whistles were sounded to give the "alert" as well as the "all clear" signals. The test lasted twenty-five minutes from 9 to 9:25 p. m.

Two Sirens Installed

Since the first test a five horsepower siren has been installed atop the city hall and another siren is now being erected in the rear of South Cumberland fire station.

Third and Race streets, Brooks said that the latter air raid warning device will be in operation by Monday evening.

Brooks urged all citizens throughout the county to prepare for the blackout. He advised the use of blackout shades or curtains for all lighted rooms or offices and warned that those who fail to co-operate will be reported to headquarters by air raid wardens who will be on duty in the various sections of the city and county.

Blackouts have been held in Frostburg, Lonaconing and the Tri-Towns since the first of the year, but on next Monday every community in Allegany county will be asked to co-operate in the first county-wide test.

The participation in the blackout will be one of the highlights of the state ARP director's tour of Western Maryland. With Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, Col. Barrett will review a parade Sunday in Hagerstown.

To Check Control Centers

Col. Barrett will check the control centers and communication systems throughout Western Maryland on Monday while on Tuesday he will tour Garrett county.

"The visit," Col. Barrett said, "should give us an idea of the situation at the present moment in the Western counties. It is most important that these control centers be checked and that we know they are functioning properly. Isaac S. George, executive director of the state defense council, agrees with me that the checking of the control centers is a vital point."

Knights of Malta To Confer Degree

Commanderies of Two States Will Attend Ceremony at Malta Temple

The Red Cross and Sepulchre degree, highest degree of the order, will be conferred by the Knights of Malta, under direction of Lee B. See, past commander, this evening at 8 p. m., at the Malta temple, 67 Prospect Square.

Commanderies of Maryland and Pennsylvania will attend and present candidates to receive this degree and preparations are being made for a large attendance at this degree is a special occasion once a year.

Officers taking part in the ritualistic work include: H. D. Kingston, sovereign commander; Joseph Grimm, senior councillor; Philip Keller, junior councillor; Ralph Walton, high prelate; H. A. Johnson, chancellor; J. F. Bittner, burgo; J. D. Burner, vice-chancellor; Charles M. See, musical director; Del C. Gahner, pursuivant; George P. Harrison, herald; George W. Hensley, standard bearer; Stanley Grimm, sword bearer.

Reginald Stallings, first guard; McKindley H. Burton, second guard; Dan W. Johnson, warden; Peter Koumanis, sentinel; Lee B. See, degree director.

Following the conferring of the degree, a buffet luncheon will be served.

Police and Fire Applicants Must File by 5 p. m.

28 Men Sign for Civil Service Examination on April 30

Today is the final day for applicants to file papers for the examination for positions in the Cumberland police and fire departments which will be conducted Thursday, April 30, at 7 p. m., in Fort Hill high school.

All applications must be in the hands of Samuel E. Griminger, city clerk, properly executed and filled out in ink, and with the medical examiner's report attached thereto, not later than 5 p. m., today. Applications received after this date will be disregarded.

New Board in Charge

The examination next week will be the first to be conducted by the newly appointed Board of Civil Service Commissioners of the City of Cumberland, namely, C. Philip Jolley, chairman, H. Clifford Spiker and Jesse W. Korns. Griminger is secretary to the board.

Those on the police and fire department eligible list must re-register to retain their rating and if they feel they can better their marks they made take the examination next week.

Ernest M. Powell, 113 Harrison street; William H. Valentine, 314 Furnace street, and Arthur V. Hast, 811 Columbia avenue, on the police eligible list, have re-registered, as have Ervin W. Lease, 611 Miller avenue; John G. Kreitzberg, 702 North Mechanic street; Victor G. Long, 439 Bond street, and Philip H. Smith, 20 Euclid place, on the fire department eligible list.

28 New Men Are Listed

Nineteen new applicants have signed up for the police examination and nine for the fire department test.

Latest police applicants include: J. Orville Pier, 135 Reynolds street; Robert C. Showalter, 233 Union street; William C. Rayburn, 31 North Liberty street; Louis D. Downey, 633 Hill Top Drive; Gorman L. Hines, 110 Bellevue street; Lonnie L. Jackson, 114 Columbia street; Warren S. Marion, 224 Walnut place, and Charles T. Appel, 111½ Blaul avenue.

Fire department applicants signed up in the past two days include Milton Steward, 226 North Centre street and Loman E. Bennett, 29 Fifth street.

Jesse W. Korns, former chairman of the civil service board, yesterday said that the present number of applicants is far below the record of 104 men who took the examination in 1936.

New Angle Injected

A new angle was injected into the controversy yesterday when Dashiell, president of the board of education, in a published statement, took issue with the statement of R. Mason Hill, county assessor, that $8,573 for the paving debt had been included in the school budget as finally approved by the board of county commissioners.

Hill's remarks on being informed of Dashiell's statement were brief and to the point.

"By rushing into print with such a statement," said Hill, "Mr. Dashiell shows that he does not know any more about the matter than Mayor Conlon."

The reference to Mayor Conlon stemmed from the fact that the mayor had expressed indignation that the county commissioners had reduced the tax rate without providing for payment of money due the city for street and paving improvements in front of school properties. Hill pointed out that the obligation was against the board of education and not the commissioners, and furthermore, that the commissioners had approved an item of $8,573 in the school board budget for this very purpose.

Budget Formally Approved

Dashiell said that if the item were still in the school budget, the change must have been made since the "final" conference on the matter was held by the commissioners and the school board Monday afternoon. The county budget was formally approved and signed Tuesday.

The $8,573 item for the paving costs was included in the budget submitted by the board of education. That much is agreed.

But whether it was stricken out Monday afternoon is the question raised yesterday. Dashiell says it was, but Commissioners Simeon W. Green and James Holmes say it was not, and they are supported by Hill and other members of the county office staff.

Commissioner Patrick J. Stakem declined to comment for publication, as did Wilbur V. Wilson and Horace P. Whitworth. Dashiell's colleagues on the board of education, School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp was out of the city and could not be reached for a statement.

According to Dashiell, the item was ordered eliminated by Green, president of the board of commissioners, whom he quoted as saying that "the city of Cumberland can't collect this charge, and there's no use putting it in your budget."

"The last word on the subject," Dashiell insisted, "was that the paving charges due the city of Cumberland were definitely out. All we know is that our proposal to pay the liens was stricken out. . . . If its status was changed after our meeting Monday afternoon, it was done without telling the education board about it."

Produces Official Copy

To support the contention of the commissioners, Hill produced the official copy of the school budget, signed by Dashiell and Kopp. Under

Ballots Mailed to Men

After verifying the applicant's registration as a voter and his right to vote, the county clerk will mail the ballot to the benefit of those actually absent because of military service, and the succeeding sections, after providing for the certification of nominations at dates earlier than is usually provided in the election law, set forth the following requirements which must be complied with:

"The voter must apply in writing for a ballot to the board of supervisors of elections where he resides, not more than forty-five nor less than seven days before election day, and such application must contain the full name and the place of residence by street and number, if possible, from which the applicant is registered, the address to which the ballot is to be mailed to him, and the position or rank held by the applicant in the military or naval service."
